Martial Law Will Be Declared if it Becomes Necessary. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE) Must not Allow Subjects to Monkey with Other People. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ANTLERS (I. T.,) Oct. 5.—The Choctaw Council convened this morning at Tuskahoma, and as yet no serious trouble has risen. Marshal McAlister has a number of his best deputies there, and Indian Agent Wisdom has sent Capt. Jack Ellis with a squad of Indian police and a company of soldiers arrived there yesterday. Gov. McCurtain will be inaugurated about Wednesday, and if any trouble breaks out, martial law will be declared. ATLANTA (Ga.,) Oct. 5.—If the rul-ing of Judge Foute of Atlanta obtains, hypnotists will have to be very careful what they order their subjects to do. The Judge holds that the hypno-tist is directly responsible for the acts of subjects.

During a performance at a local theater the subject of a hypnotist imag-ined he was a monkey. He grabbed a hat off a man in the audience and bit a piece out of it. The professor bit a piece out of it. The professor and his business manager declined to make good the cost of the hat, and the hypnotist was prosecuted before Judge Foute upon a charge of malicious mischief. The Judge sustained the charge, and bound the hypnotist over to a higher court.

washington, Oct. 5.—At the request of the Interior Department, the Secretary of War has sent troops to Tuskahoma in the Choctaw country to guard against trouble which is apprehended by Agent Wisdom, when the new chief of the tribe is installed.

The order was sent to Gen. Merritt at Chicago, and the troops sent forward were two troops of cavalry, who were at the practice camp, Swan Lake, near Pond Creek, just west of the Oklahoma line. The troops made a forced march, and Gen. Merritt reported by telegraph this afternoon that they had arrived at Tuskahoma this evening. The troops were placed under the orders of Indian Agent Wisdom.

I don't propose nave more at stake in this issue than any other class of men. Minnesota Now Willing to Give Mc Kinley 30,000 Majority. (BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Special Dis-patch.) The Mail and Express has the following from St. Paul: "If the Presidential election were fixed for today, there is every reason to believe that Minnesota would give Mc-Kinley close to 30,000 majority. What it will do a month hence may be a different story, though I doubt it. It was after 2:30 o'clock when the last speech had been concluded and a start for the depot was made. All along the route the generals were constantly cheered, while at the depot a great throng greeted the party and cheered the train as it pulled out. Gen. Alger this afternoon received a telegram from Maj. McKinley asking the party to visit Canton on its way East. The invitation will be accepted.

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.,) Oct. 5.—
The Union generals arrived in Leavenworth between 4 and 5 o'clock, and made a stop of twenty minutes. It rained all afternoon, but the rain did not prevent a crowd of 2500 people from gathering at the depôt. There were about a thousand veterans in from the National Soldiers' Home, and they were wildly enthusiastic when the generals alighted from the car. Veterans carried Gen Sickles to a platform, where he spoke ten minutes in the rain. Some of the veterans wept with joy on greeting their old commanders.

RICHMOND (Va.,) Oct. 5.-Ex-Presi dent Harrison spoke here to about six thousand people tonight. The meeting was held in the Auditorium, where Bryan addressed from 15,000 to 18,000 classes. This is a poor man's fight against the rich. What they may accomplish with the labor element and poor farmers on this demagogic basis no one can predict, for opinion shifts in Minnesota more quickly than in many States, and there is no telling whether the McKinley sentiment now running with seeming strength can withstand the strain of the next four weeks. The struggle here now is to keep the fight on."

"Ladles and gentlemen: I will thank you to be as quiet as possible, as I desire to speak to you in a quiet, dispassionate way of some things that are of great interest to me, and I hope of interest to you. I have come here at the request of Virginia friends to speak on questions now agitating us all.

"Virginia is not the "enemy's country" to me. (Cheers.) It is my ancestral home, and its citizens are my fellow-citizens. (Cheers.) I do believe that Virginia has as large a number of great and good men under ground as any State of the country. I never said that she had no good men above ground. (Cheers and disorder.) "More than that, not only do her citizens, but the Confederate soldiers stand now for the old flag of Washington. (Applause.) If it shall be the sad fate of this country to be involved in war, if any foreign flag attempts to trample on our flag, Indiana and Virginia stay that onslaught? THE CHICAGO RIOT.

"I regret to notice the recent assault upon our just constitutional powers. The incident I refer to is the Chicago riot. Men in defiance of law, in great riot. Men in defiance of law, in great organized bodies, went through the streets with fire and sword, destroying property, stopping railroads, blocking the mails and preventing commerce. These acts had their origin in railroad strikes, and were the work of men under the red fiag of anarchy. Mr. Cleveland felt it his duty, as President of the United States, to call out the der the red flag of anarchy. Mr. Cleveland felt it his duty, as President of the United States, to call out the troops. He was the instrument as commander of the army and navy to restore the traffic and the movement of trains. The courts were appealed to and a writ of injunction granted to enforce the law. Violation of the order of the court resulted in contempt proceedings, and punishment of the offenders, which was right. These courts proceeded on a line that was legal, and that was upheld by the Constitution, and yet the President and the Supreme Court are denounced in the Chicago platform." (Bryan cheers.)

The speaker here referred to Senator Daniel, and scored him for being a party to the Chicago platform when he had in the Senate fathered a resolution indorsing President Cleveland for sending the troops to Chicago. He held that the upholding of the Constitution and law was the most important of all duties of a citizen. He argued that the Chicago platform meant to change the Supreme Court body, so as to accomplish the ends of anarchy. He said that Virginians had just as much at stake in the preservation of the laws as the people of any other State, and urged them to vote to prevent it from getting despoiled.

The second question that Gen. Harrison discussed was the money question. He had exhausted over half of his time in speaking of the importance of maintaining law and order. His arguments against free silver were along the line of those he has used in other speeches. In closing, he advocated protection to American industries. Protection would be a great boon to the South, he said. He mentioned McKinley only once and that was in his final appeal for "law and order," sound money, protection and McKinley. mal appeal for "law and order," sound money, protection and McKinley. At the close, the general was loudly applauded and many people rushed forward to shake his hand. The ex-President and Mrs. Harrison left im-mediately for Charleston, W. The feature of the demonstration at the depot was several instantaneous aerial salutes, equalling the noise of a twenty-pound cannon, given by Gen. Peter Tracy in honor of the distinguished visitor.

Bryan, at 19 o'clock, was escorted to the baseball park by a committee. Ten thousand people gave him a rousing reception. He was introduced by Senator Harris. Bryan said:

In Memphis, something more than a year ago, this fight which is being waged now, was begun; that is, it was in this city those in favor of a gold-standard met to begin the work of capturing two great political parties, and it was here, a few days afterward the silver forces gathered to begin the organization of their campaign. Therefore, at this time, when the campaign has progressed so far that we are able to form some estimate of the result, I am glad to come again to the city which will be known in history, because of the fight commenced here.

This was followed by the roaring of cannon salutes from the Inflexible, Victory and also from the batteries ashore. The Duke of Connaught, on board a steam pinnace, accompanied the Pole Star to the mouth of the harbor, and then returned to shore. The Pole Star proceeded to the Standard, and was saluted by the British fleet commanded by Vice-Admiral Lord Walter Talbert Kerr, which formed as two lines, and with the Pole Star in the center proceeded seaward to meet the French fleet from Cherbourg, which was to escort the imperial party to that port. THE SCENE AT CHERBOURG.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—The bad luck which seems to cling to the Czar showed itself again today. The most elaborate preparations had been made to receive the Russian travelers. The way from the landing stage to the hall of the Arsenal had been covered with silk hangings, shields, bannerettes and flowers. The landing stage was beautifully draped, Venetian masts were erected at many points, and floral bunting and other decorations were displayed everywhere. A terrific squall swept over the city, felling the Venetian masts to the ground, scattering the decorations in all directions, inflicting great damage generally. This morning hundreds of men were set to work repairing the damage.

The French northern squadron, consisting of twenty-one vessels, and including the Charles Martel, a first-class battleship; the Hoche, a battle-ship, with Vice-Admiral Regnauet de Premesnil on board; the Jean, a bark; the Descartes, Jemmeps, and fifteen cruisers, and the torpedo boats left the harbor at 8 o'clock in single file, a gale blowing. Before the waiships were outside the harbor they were almost completely hidden from view by a heavy rainstorm, which did further damage to the decorations ashore. The gale also increased in force, and a heavy sea began to thunder on the coast. Storm signals were hoisted here and along the coast.

At noon the news was signaled that the Russian imperial yacht, Pole Star, had joined the French squadron, and was proceeding to this port with the French warships on each side of her. The imperial guests will, after being formally welcomed by President Faure, proceed along the covered way to the hall of the arsenal.

Rails have been laid in the Arsenal grounds from the railroad proper to the door of the diplomatic hall. It is proposed the Czar and Czarina shail embark on board the imperial train this evening and proceed to Paris, where they are booked to arrive at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning at Lamuette station. Thence Their Majesties are to the Prussian Embassy, where they will be housed during their stay.

"Vive la Russia!" during which several baskets of flowers were presented to the Czarina. President Faure presented the Czarina with a floral offering representing a car filled with roses, pinks and azaleas, drawn by two doves.

The Czarina was the first to land, holding in her hand a light unopened umbrella. She was dressed simply in gray costume, with a cape, and wore a straw hat trimmed with roses de France. The Czar wore the uniform of a naval captain, and displayed the insignia of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. His Majesty stepped firmly, with the left hand on the hilt of his sword, and showed no signs of fatigue.

President Faure was on the landing stage, and bowed deeply and kissed the Czarina's hand and welcomed the Czar to French soil, the latter replying to the President's salutations with a military salute and then taking M. Faure's hand.

The President asked solicitously whether the Czarina had not suffered greatly in the course of the rough passage across the channel. The Czar tahanked him for the inquiry, and reassured him regarding the Czarina's welfare. He further expressed the pleasure he felt in at last achieving France.

The party ascended the steps leading to the hall decorated in Louis XIV style, the Premier, presidents of the Chamber and others followed them and the sunlight burst through the clouds for the first time during the day, thus dispelling the gloomy feelings of those who had remarked the unlucky storm of the night and morning, and the incident of the wreck of the gang-plank at the landing stage.

The invited guests were already seated in the reception hall and they arose as the Czar and Czarina and the President entered. The latter escorted seated in the reception hall and they arose as the Czar and Czarina and the President entered. The latter escorted Their Majesties to the raised platform where President Faure took up a position in the middle with the imperial guests on either side of him. The various presentations were then made, and the party proceeded to the diplomatic hall between two lines of guests, who bowed as the Czarina, still on the arm of President Faure, passed. The Czarina responded smilingly, and the Czar touched his cocked hat to the salutes he received.

After a short stay in the grand hall, preparations were made for boarding the Napoleon state barge Elan in order to review the fleet. Before this was done, Admiral Besnard, Minister of Marine, suggested that, in view of the fatigues which she had already undergone during the day, the Czarina might prefer not to accompany the Czar during the review of the fleet.

The Czarina graciously replied: "I am too anxious to visit a French vessel to renounce such a pleasure."

The Czarina graciously replied: "I am too anxious to visit a French vessel to renounce such a pleasure."

The magnificently-painted, gilded and upholstered barge was flying the French tri-color and the Russian imperial standard side by side. As the Elan emerged from the harbor to revelw the fleet of French warships, moored in the roadstead, each vessel fired a salute of thirty-one guns. The barge steamed between the ships of the fleet, which was drawn up in four lines, and, as the barge passed, the crew of each vessel gave seven cheers and the guard of honor, on deck, presented arms, the bugles sounded and the band played the Russian anthem. The Elan was stopped abreast of the battleship Hoche, the flagship of the squadron, and the imperial party proceeded on board of her.

As the Czar and Czarina came on board, the Russian standard was lowered from the main, and the personal flags of the Czar and President Faure were hoisted on the ship. All of the chief officers of the port of Cherbourg and of the squadron were massed on deck. The Czar conversed for a few moments with Vice-Admiral Regnault de Premesnil, in command of the squadron. Upon leaving the Hoche a renewed salute of thirty-one guns was given. As President Faure traversed the Pole Star on his return from the barge to the arsenal, the Russian sailors on board cheered and the band played the "Marseillais."

All those who have been concerned in the ceremonies incident to the welcoming of the Czar are greatly pleased at the Russian monarch's affability. Twice he insisted that M. Faure should precede.

AT THE BANQUET.

At 6:30 o'clock this evening, President Faure and the other French officials went to the quay to fetch the Czar to the banquet. The President alone went on board the Pole Star. The Czar immediately made his appearance, and all proceeded to the banquet-hall. There were seventy-three guests seated at three tables in the arsenal. The central table had a magnificent display of golden ornaments and flowers. The Czar and President Faure occupied the central places at his table, M. Loubet, representing the Senate, and M. Brisson, President of the Chamber of Deputies, being seated on either side of them. The Czarina was not present at the AT THE BANQUET. being seated on either side of them. At the conclusion of the banquet, the Czar and President Faure engaged in cordial conversation lasting for twenty minutes. M. Faure then escorted His Majesty to the imperial train, where the Czar warmly shook the President's hand and M. Faure kissed the hand of the Czarina. The batteries fired a final salute as the Czar and Czarina entered the train, which started at $30 o'clock, the Presidential train following at $45 o'clock. A double line of troops presented arms as each of the trains departed.

President Faure has conferred the various grades of the Legion of Honor upon the various members of the Czar's entourage, including the grade of Grand Officer of the Legion upon Rear Admiral Lomy.

In order to please the townspeople of Cherbourg, the Czar has ordered that the imperial yachts Pole Star and Standard, should remain here until the end of the week. The Czar has conferred decorations upon the notable French statesmen who took part in the reception ceremony.

WOOD ON THE TRACK. LONDON, Oct. 5.-A great deal has LONDON, Oct. 5.—A great deal has been made of little or nothing by the report circulated in the United States that a large block of wood was found lying across the railroad track at a guard stand, some distance south of Lancaster, an hour before the Czar's train passed there yesterday morning from Ballater to Portsmouth. The inference evidently intended to be drawn from the message was that an attempt would be made to wreck the imperial train. Such is not the case. A milepost was blown down by the wind on the railway track opposite to the one on which the Czar traveled, and was removed half an hour before the imperial train passed by the plate-layers, whose work it is to watch the tracks during stormy weather.

A LESSON LOST.

Historical Significance of the Day (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
PARIS, Oct. 5.—(By Atlantic Cable

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(By Atlantic Cable. Associated Press Copyright, 1896.) The date that coincides with the landing in France of Nicholas and Alexandra is the hundred and seventh anniversary of the march of the market women of Paris on the Palace of Versailles to bring back the King, Queen and their children, hostages of the revolution. Their capture was effected next day, October 6, 1789, on the anniversary of which the Czar enters Paris for the first time, and with that spectacular show which the French are so skilled in arranging. The blind worms now in power here are doing what they can to divest the date, insofar as M. Hanutaux and Prince Lobanoff (who sketched the ceremonial,) were concerned, of its true significance.

the ceremonial,) were concerned, or true significance.

The severe lesson that it should in culcate is being hidden away. Despotic monarchs are, humanely speaking, assured of impunity. The power that shapes the ends of nations, as individual men and women, catches up such potentates in their posterity and such potentates in the posterity and such potentates in the po minds of Nicholas and Alexandra, and make them tremble for themselves and for their infant daughter, the darling of their hearts.

The Czar and Czarina will not be escorted to France by Russian warships. The French government was most anxious that they should do so, and give an object lesson in the roads of Cherbourg of the naval strength of France and Russia united. But Nicholas was too much the gentleman to lend himself to that game of brag which doubtless would have been most gratifying to the President, who wants to figure in the eyes of Europe as the Sea King and the head of the French army. He never, to place himself on the same maritime level as Victoria, misses an oportunity to make excursions in men-of-war with a whole squadron in his wake. The Czar, seeing through his purpose of posing as a rival of the Queen on the watery element, sent word that he would be merely escorted by the sister yacht of the Standard, in which he and the Czarina cross from Portsmouth to Cherbourg.

To make up for this disappointment, M. Felix Faure caused a part of the Atlantic and Toulon souadron to be Cherbourg.

To make up for this disappointment, M. Felix Faure caused a part of the Atlantic and Toulon squadron to be ordered around to Cherbourg. There will be, therefore, a grand naval spectacle in honor of the imperial visitors. It was hoped that they would go to witness it from the Fort Du Route, on a high hill behind the town, but since the dynamite scare this idea has been waived. M. Faure has, however, been able to secure the presence of the Czar, in company with himself, at a review of 70,000 soldiers at the camp of Chalons.

The mammoth imperial train proved unmanageable and dangerous. In going around the girdle railway from Yaugrirard to Passy Green, where the imperial party are to alight, it flattened out the rails and ran off them. Had it not been going at a snall's pace, there would have been a grave, not to say fatal, accident. Russian railways run in a straight line from one great city, to another, without regard for intermediate burgs or villages. As the whole country is flat for thousands of miles, there are no more steep gradients than abrupt bends. The colossal weight of the imperial train, 430 tons, on a downward grade might have caused a catastrophe. A train, therefore, was arranged to replace that of the Emperor, which will afford accommodation and be only half the weight.

M. Faure will have the intense joy of acting as host to the imperial visitors all the way from Cherbourg to Paris, and of giving them more than the eight hours of his company and conversation than they had agreed to put up with at Cherbourg. The original arrangement was that they should travel in their own train and he in his, a short distance before them. He is to meet them at Cherbourg without Mme. Faure, and is also to meet them, accompanied by the ladies of his family, at the Palace of Versailles the day they go there.

Mme. Faure has no national or international rank, and the President's many journalistic enemies, whose envy he is constantly arousing, have made it impossible for the Empress to ignore a black page of the good lady's family history. This exposure was mean and spiteful. But the court of Russia had to take it into account. The Empress accordingly is not to associate with Mme. Faure in public. She is only to see her when she calls at the Elysse and dines there. Great efforts are being made here to get this flat altered, and to bring out the Faure ladies at the Francais, and the operahouse when their imperial majesties go there.

M. Faure will await them at the this flat altered, and to bring out the Faure ladies at the Francais, and the operahouse when their imperial majesties go there.

M. Faure will await them at the Francais and operahouse. They have arranged to go by themselves to the former, and to Versailles. The road thither has a central pavement of cobblestones, thirteen miles. An imperial levee will be held in the gallery of mirrors, which has been furnished as in the time of Lodis XVI. Original portraits and busts of Peter the Great, the Catherines and Paul and Alexander I have been brought down from the attic gallery and placed on easels in the south wing, where their imperil majesties can see them without climbing lofty stairs.

Scaffoldings have been removed at enormous cost from the terraces, fountains and basins repaired; a fleet of eighteenth century royal barges furnished up to take the imperial visitors by the canal in his gardens facing the west front of the palace to the Trianon. This excursion is to follow a lunch in the Gallery of Battles and a long rest of the imperial visitors in his suite of small rooms fitted up by Marie Antoinette as a private residence.

In the blueroom there is a dainty sofa of sky blue in a glit frame. The lovely Queen liked to see her beautiful head in front in profile and vanishing profile. She ordered three mirrors to be set at right angles. But the first time she went to survey herself in them at one of the corners she beheld—what? A headless body, and sank fainting on the sofa. She was constantly meeting with incidents and, facing catastrophes that seemed preaages of coming woes.

In this respect Nicholas and Alexandra resemble her. Their wedding was on the morrow of his father's funeral. The first year of their reign was blackened by the massacres, in which 100,000 people perished. Their coronation was marked by the appalling catastrophe of Moscow, and the day they reached Vienna the first news they received was that fresh massacres had taken place. Then, on their return journey from Vienna, Prince Lobanoff, whom cle then was appalled to learn of the cle then was appalled to learn of the dynamite conspiracy.

Providence seems to have warned them that long life, prosperity and universal love and esteem may be won by following the example of Queen Victoria; but that disaster must in the long run catch up with those monarchs whose grand political schemes are executed through iniquity. Balmoral and Versallies, September 23 and October 5 and 6 inculcate this warning.

THE HORRIBLE FATE OF AN OHIO

Kills the Brute with an Ax-Pre-pares to Meet His Own Doom. Buried Gold.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) CLEVELAND (O.,) Oct. 5.—Details of a grewsome tragedy in the little town of Hinkley in Medina county, Saturday, have been received here, when the body of Bernard Sherman, a hermit, was found in his cabin, chained and padlocked to a post.

Nearly twenty years ago there ap-peared in Hinkley a stranger of whom nothing was known beyond his name, which was Bernard Sherman. The inquisitive country folk, after a year or more of curiosity, left the man un-disturbed in the solitude of a decrepit old hovel, which he had rented in lonesome outskirts of the hamlet. The hut gradually became surrounded with an air of mystery. The dweller rarely visited the village, and then only for the necessities of life, which he seemed to have plenty of money to pay for. One night in the early part of last week, several boys were passing the place when they were startled by pro-longed and terrifying human ravings The old man was never heard of again.
Afraid of the scoffs of the incredulous, the boys did not tell of their experience but the deserted appearance of the old hut finally attracted attention, and an investigation was started. There was only one room in the house and when only one room in the house and when the door was broken in the old man was found lying dead, chained to a post, with a locked chain. The condition of the body told of a death struggle most horrible, and the doctors ascribed death to hydrophobia.

Just outside the hovel was found the body of a big St. Bernard dog, the sole companion of the recluse, the beast's death having been caused by an ax wound in the head. The supposition is that the brute went mad and bit his master. The old man, realizing that death was inevitable, had locked himself in when he felt the madness coming on, chained himself fast, locked his fetters with a padlock and thrown the key away. Burled under the zoor of the hovel was found $13,000 in gold.

There was nothing that could shed light on the mystery of his life.

He concluded he was to be the victim, and simply stole a march on those he thought were plotting to butcher him.

The slayer is well-known throughout this section as "Crazy Charlie." He is in custody, and takes matters coolly. He was born in Marysville, in this State. Some years ago his brother was killed by Indians, who took him was kined by Indians, who took him away from a posse of officers and cut him to pieces for killing an Indian. The next day Tom disappeared, and his red brethren's suspicions aroused against Ti, they instituted a search. They found the upper part of Tom's body in the river. His head, legs and arms had been cut off, and his breast bone sawed apart. The murderer had removed the internal organs and placed the body in brine until it was thoroughly pickled. Ah Ti gave a big dinner to his Indian friends shortly after the poker game, and there were some relished tid-bits which the Plutes had reason afterward to believe were the lungs and heart of the missing poker sharp.

The Indians threatened Ti with a fate similar to that meted out to Tom, and the Chinese applied to the Sheriff for protection. He acknowledged the killing, but said Tom had first attacked him, and he acted in self-defense. He cut the Indian up to escape detection. Ti was tried for murder and acquitted. As he was leaving the courtroom, after his trial he was seized by a band of two hundred Indians, who bound him with a rope and led him half a mile out of town. A brother of "Poker Tom" cut off an arm of the captive. Ti cried piteously for mercy, and the Indians cut off another arm. They then cut off both legs and his head, split the breast bone, and scattered his vital organs through the sagebrues. The barbaric execution was witnessed by two white men, but no one offered to interfere.

THEY WERE MARRIED. Dr. Grinnell Has Some Difficulty in

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct, 5 .- The wedding of Miss Jennie Catherwood, daughter of Mrs. Darling, wife of Maj. Darling, and Dr. Grinnell, a nephew of Gov. Levi P. Morton of New York, was ling, and Dr. Grinnell, a nephew of Gov. Levi P. Morton of New York, was originally set for October 14. Cards were sent out announcing that the nuptials would be celebrated on that day at the family villa of the Hastings at Rutherford, in Napa county.

The War Department, with that disregard for the wishes of brides which has been felt of late, particularly in this city, peremptorily ordered Maj. Darling and the rest of the officers of the Fifth Artillery to proceed immediately to their stations in the Eastern States. Their departure could not be delayed even for a wedding, and Miss Catherwood naturally wanted to have her stepfather present at the nuptials, as well as her other friends, the officers of the regiment and their families. The first invitations to the wedding were recalled and a second set sent out, bidding the guests to be present at the Presidio at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when the wedding will take place.

Her fiancé, Dr. Grinnell of New York, did not understand our laws, and neglected to take out a marriage license. He made the discovery yesterday that such a paper was necessary and he also learned that the County Clerk's office would be closed today, it being a legal holiday. In a very unhappy frame of mind, Dr. Grinnell chartered a swift hack and set out in pursuit of a deputy clerk. Mrs. Maj. Darling, mother of Miss Catherwood, is not on good terms with Gen. Graham, commandant of the post. The Graham family, alone of all the officers' families at the post, was not invited to the wedding. The Presidio band had been engaged to play at the ceremony, but when the wedding commenced. Gen. Graham ordered the bandsmen back to their quarters, so they did not play at the wedding. Graham also ordered Hack Inspector Martin and a hundred carriages of the reservation, so the guests had to walk from the hall of the post where the wedding took place out to the gates of the Presidio to get into their carriages. The incident caused much feeling. ANOTHER INCIDENT

The Formal Celebration of the Val-ley Road's Advent.

FRESNO, Oct. 5.—Fresno is alive with happy, well-dressed people to-day. Every class, condition and vawith nappy, well-dressed people to-, day. Every class, condition and variety of cosmopolitan population is here. From mountains, from plains, from cities, towns, villages, and hamlets of the great valley, by train, by carriage, wagons, and on horseback, they have come in a steady stream for the past eight hours. Conservative estimates place the number of people within our gates at not less than fifteen or twenty thousand.

At precisely 12 o'clock the procession, which was a long and showy one, divided into several divisions, each division with its band started on its march. The parade was both military and civic, and was reviewed by Gov. Budd and his staff at the celebration grounds around the spot where the new Valley Railway depot will be erected.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand the special train bearing the directors of the road and a large number of invited guests from San Francisco, Stockton and points along the road, arrived, and the guests and railroad officials witnessed the parade from the cars.

A. R. Briggs of Fresno then deliv-the road, arrived, and the guests and rallroad, officials witnessed the parade from the cars.

A. R. Briggs of Fresno then delivered the welcoming address, followed by Capt, Payson on behalf of the Valley road directors. The celebration was a joint demonstration, the advent of electric power being a feature. People throughout the valley are much enthused over the progress thus far made. Those south of here, who today for the first time looked upon the sight of a train coming in over the Valley road, received the impression that the completing line is fast assuming a sharp reality. The barbecue, which was one of the principal features of the day's festivities, was attended by the road directors. Gov. Budd and staff and thousands of people from abroad.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT. FRESNO, Oct. 5.—The number of people who participated in today's celebration of the completion of the Val ple who participated in today's celebration of the completion of the Valley road, is variously estimated at from 10,000 to 20,000. It was the largest crowd ever assembled in the city, people coming in large numbers from as far north as Stockton and from the south as far as Bakersfield.

The industrial parade under the marghalship of Fulton G. Berry was a mile and a half long, and in line were enormous loads of wheat, wine, wool, raisins, etc., for shipment over the new road.

At the depot grounds upon the arrival of the first passenger train, an address of welcome was made by Arthur R. Briggs, to which a response was made by Claus Spreckels. Both addresses were enthusiastically received, Spreckels' statement that the company only desired to make 6 per cent. interest on the actual cost of building the road being especially well received.

In the evening there was a fine bicycle parade, which was followed by open-air speeches by Gov. Budd, Claus Spreckels, Attorney Preston and Levinsky of Stockton. Later a banquet was given to the Committee of Ten at the Hughes Hotel, and the Governor and his staff and the officials of the road participated.

The laboring man, for whose benefit the day was set as a set, as one on which toil should not be known, failed to observe it. None of the labor organizations turned out, and the mills and factories ran right along. The reason is that the first Monday in September was recognized by them as Labor day.

earnest enough in their desire to restore the standard of coinage of the Constitution, to lay aside the differences upon minor questions until this great fight is won. While I appreciate the honor conferred upon me, not only by the nomination by my own party, but by the additional nominations by the other two parties, I say to you here, my friends, my interest in the cause of bimetallism is so deep that I would, without a moment's hesitation, resign my nomination in favor of any person in this country who can better carry this cause to victory. (Applause.) It is not the time to listen to personal ambition.

hot the time to distent to personal ambition.

A Voice. You are the Jackson of today.

Bryan. It is no time to set personal interests above the country's good. It is no time when we are to consider the temporary effect of this election upon party allegations. It is time when we are to consider the temporary effect of this election upon party allegations. It is time when we are to consider the effect of the gold standard, if perpetual, not on party organization, not on this country alone, but on all mankind. (Applause.)

During his speech, Bryan said:

"We don't want a dollar to look at as it passes from us. We want a dollar to handle as it passes among us. I want bimetallism, because it requires all the gold and all the silver to furnish a safe basis for the immense commercial affairs for the nineteenth century. It requires them both. You talk to me about a flood of money when we have free coinage. My friends, I know people who have lived so long in the South that they are watching for their first dripping of the flood. (Applause.)

"I am not afraid that when all the gold coinage and all the silver available for coinage are poured into the money volume of the world there will be more than enough to form a safe and sound basis for safe and sound commercial transactions. (Applause.)

Our opponents say we want sound money. What would you think of a carpenter who tried to build a house upon an invisible foundation? And yet they want to build up a commercial transaction in this country upon a little lump of gold regardless of the fact that foreigners hold a string to the gold and can jerk out the foundation of our commerce. (Applause.)

WHAT WILL DO IT.

"WHAT WILL DO IT.

"You ask us how we are going to bring silver back into use. I tell you you cannot do it by electing people to office who want it driven out of use. (Applause.) Money is a creature of the law, and laws are made by the people. Our opponents said gold was the only money for a civilized country, and wrote their platform declaring for bimetallism. Why did they do it? Because even the advocates of the gold standard were not willing to go before the American people on a declaration in favor of a single gold standard, and they put in the delusive hope for international bimetallism and pledged the party to maintain the gold standard until they could get it. The same influences went to Chicago and tried to do the same thing there.

THE MINORITY PLANK. THE MINORITY PLANK.

"The minority plank in the Chicago platform was so much like the Repub-lican plank that you could not tell the difference between them with a mag-nifying glass. The Republican platform difference between them with a magnifying glass. The Republican platform pledged the Republican party to maintain the gold standrad until they could get international bimetallism and the minority plank in the Democratic platform opposed free coinage for fear it would interfere with getting international bimetallism. The majority rules and you have an issue this year between those who want to continue the gold standard and those who want to abandon it. I am not running under any misunderstanding.

"Our opponents tell us that our dollar will be a cheap one. We tell them that they never called the silver dollar a cheap one until it was demonetized.
We insist that the legislation did. We finsist that the opening of our mints will oreate a demand, which the closing of our mints destroyed, and that the demand for silver will raise the price of silver buillon to $1.29, anywhere in the world. (Applause.) But you say it will be as hard to get a silver dollar as it is now, under the gold standard. You overlook the first principle that must be understood in strudying the money question.

WANTS COMPETITION.

"Gold has gone up because you destroyed its competitor. Restore its competitor and let silver be used on equal terms, and by increasing the value of standard money you lessen the strain on gold and reduce the purchasing-power of an ounce of gold throughout the world. (Great applause.) The silver dollar and the gold dollar will be worth the same whether in the form of each great part of the gorn of each great part of the grow of each great part of the gorn of each great part of the gold part plause.) The silver dollar and the gold dollar will be worth the same whether in the form of coin or in the form of melted bullion, but it will be easier to get either when you hace the chance to get both, than it is now when you have to fight for one. The prosperity of your great cities depends upon the prosperity of the farmers and planters of this country.

GOLD AND COTTON. GOLD AND COTTON.

"Down goes the value of cotton when you drive up the value of gold. Talk about one dollar that is good as any dollar in the world. If you want cotton at least brought to be as good as it used to be before gold got out of reach, restore prosperity to the cities and to the laboring man, who will then be employed in manufacturing things for the farmers, who will then have the money to buy what they need. I find that, as I go about, there are a greatmany bankers who support the gold standard.

that, as I go about, there are a greatmany bankers who support the gold standard.

"My friends, I don't know why a banker in Memphis should be interested in driving down the value of the farm products of those who do business with him, and if you want to know the explanation of that condition, I can give it. I will say this, that when you have found a man who has been so busy handling money as not to have had time to study the science of financiering, I will show you the great controlling force among the bankers of the West and South. They get their news from New York, and instructions from Wall street, and the bankers of Wall street get theirs from London, and your bankers here set up and call themselves patriots, while they bow to foreign dictation.

DRUMMING UP COURAGE.

DRUMMING UP COURAGE.

"Now, my friends, I ask you not to be dismayed at the forces arrayed against us. Not a man in this campaign who advocates free coinage has been more bitterly assailed than Jefferson was when he started out to organize the Democratic party. (Applause.) Not a man in this campaign has been more bitterly assailed than Jackson was when he was fighting the same kind of combinations which we are fighting today. The battle of Democracy today is the battle that Democracy today is the battle that Democracy has ever fought. It is the cause of the people, the cause of the great mass of people as arrayed against those who seek special privileges and who attempt to fasten their hold upon the government by an enormous campaign fund with the hope of getting back more after the election. (Great applause.)

SIMPLIX OPPOSES.

"Against a corruption fund, unparal-DRUMMING UP COURAGE.

SIMPLY OPPOSES.

"Against a corruption fund, unparalleled in the history of this country, we simply oppose a people, defenseless except for that defense which every citizen has when he is fighting in the cause of truth and justice. When a person relies most upon the justice of his cause, he is then stronger than he is at any other time. (Applause.) We also have to face intimidation, But, my friends, we have always had to face intimidation. Those whom we fight today have used intimidation as their weapons at all times. But in this country we find that as the people become more to realize the justice of free government and liberty, the attempt to intimidate simply reacts and men who are not aroused before become aroused now because they realize that they have departed from their custom. Our opponents simply deny the right of men to use their ballots as they please. (Applause.) Intimidation today is having just the opposite effect from what was intended."

Bryan was taken immediately to the Louisville and Nashville depot when he had finished his speech. There were hundreds of people gathered about the station to see him off, and when he made his way to the car he was repeatedly cheered. The first stop was at Arlington, and Bryan shook hands with a few of the hundred people who assembled at the depot. At Brownsville, Bryan made a short speech.
Fully as large a crowd greeted the candidate at Humboldt as had welcomed him at Memphis. Bryan spoke to them briefly, confining his remarks mainly to the evil influence of trusts and corporations.

There was another great crowd at Milan, so large in fact, that it caused the nominee to remark that he thought he had spoken to everybody in Gibson county at Humboldt. It was an appreciative audience, and applauded and cheered the candidate at the end of every sentence.

At McKenzie there was a crowd of preciative audience, and applauded and cheered the candidate at the end of every sentence.

At McKenzle there was a crowd of several thousand. A decorated stand had been erected near the station, and upon it were a number of Tennessee beauties, all arrayed in gowns of immaculate white. They all insisted on shaking hands with the candidate, and then he expounded his doctrine to the crowd gathered about the street.

Huntington turned out a fair crowd to hear Bryan on his arrival there at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon. He was introduced to the audience from the rear platform of the train by Senator Harris.

Camden was reached at 5:20 colock, and the scene was but a repetition of those before. Bryan spoke but a moment, when the train pulled out. The train rolled into the Nashville station at 8:35 o'clock. The town was wild. Red fire and Roman candles filled the air and the streets were almost impassable. Carriages were in waiting for the party, and Bryan was driven to the Haymarket, where he delivered his first speech.

HIS CAMPAIGN SONG.

HIS CAMPAIGN SONG.

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Oct. 5.—The greatest crowd that ever turned out to a political meeting in this city crowded about the streets here tonight, and shouted and yelled, cheered and applauded and listened with marked attention to the triple nominee on his arrival. The train bearing the party was due at 8:35 o'clock, but was ten minutes late, and it was nearly 9:15 o'clock when Bryan addressed his first audience in this city at the Haymarket. At that meeting the five acres of ground in the inclosure was fully half filled with people who cheered the candidate wildly on his appearance. A glee club of thirty male voices opened the meeting with "Home, Home, Sweet Home," the old-fashioned melody which the nominee has declared to be his campaign song. HIS CAMPAIGN SONG.

The candidate was then introduced by Senator Bate as the next President of the United States. He was cheered and applauded throughout his speech, and many times was stopped by the enthusiasm of his listeners.

Bryan began his speech by referring to the evident growth of the free-silver sentiment here since his first visit to Nashville about a year ago, He then said!

"I beg to thank the young men who have opened this meeting with our campaign song, our battle hymn it might be called, for in this fight for the defense of the homes of this land, the humble home as well as the palatial home, we well might take as our battle hymn that most beautiful of all songs, 'Home, Sweet Home.' (Applause.) Our warfare is in one sense aggressive, in another sense it is defensive. It is aggressive in the sense that we are asked for remedial legislation. It is aggressive in the sense that we are insisting that something shall be done, and it is defensive in the sense that we are fighting for our homes and our people from the invasion of a foreign financial policy.

"The free coinage of silver is no experiment. It is indorsed by the history of the human race. It has the sanction of all the great statesmen of this nation from the beginning of our constitutional history down to 1873.

"My friends, I believe so truly in the justice of our cause that I cannot for one moment doubt what will be the result when the American people are called upon to decide this question."

Continuing, Bryan asserted that the financial system advocated by the Republican party struck at the very foundation of society and threatens to desiroy all that rests upon it. He said that system had been good for those who control the large sums of "I beg to thank the young men who said that system had been good for those who control the large sums of money and the syndicates which fur-nished gold to the government, but he maintained that it had been hard the struggling masses who paid taxes and produced the wealth of

"In drawing the lines," he said, "we have lost some Democrats in this fight, but I am mighty glad those whom we lost were generals. We have not lost many privates in the army. We might have kept all the Democrats who are gone if we had been willing to pay the price they asked. If we had been willing to make the Democratic party the agent to fasten plutocracy upon the people, we could have kept every man who has left us; but we have to choose between throwing overboard these who have been millistones about the neck of Democracy and throwing over Democracy itself, and we are here to save Democracy."

self, and we are here to save Democracy."

Bryan maintained that the Democratic party had not lost in numbers through its action at Chicago. After concluding his Haymarket speech, Bryan was taken to the Athletic Park, where he made a ten-minute address. At the Populist meeting which Bryan addressed after his speeches at the Haymarket and Athletic Park, he expressed his appreciation of the honor done him by the Populist party, and also his gratification that the Democrats and Populists had been able to unite upon an electoral ticket in so many States. He said that while he would take no part in local affairs, he did feel justified in urging those who believed in free coinage to concentrate their votes to defeat the common enemy. Where fusion is accomplished the fusion ticket deserves the support of all friends of silver. He said if fusion was not arranged in Tennessee, he of all friends of silver. He said if fusion was not arranged in Tennessee, he hoped the Populists would cast their votes for the Democratic electors, and thus make their election certain, as to vote for Populist electors who had no hope of election would be an aid to the Republicans.

Bryan left at midnight for Louisville. In the morning he speaks at Jeffersonville, Ind., and during the day at other points, ending in the evening at Indianapolis, where he will address the citizens of that place.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—A sensation developed today at the meeting of the committee appointed by the Faneuli Hall Democratic convention on Beptember 27, to nominate the balance of the State ticket, after the nomination of Hon. The committee had not been in session long when Boardman Hall, representing Williams, appeared and asked that the committee substitute for the electors-at-large nominated at Faneuli Hall, those nominated by the Music Hall convention, in order that the vote for Bryan and Sewall might not be divided.

After the proposition had been received, Hon. John H. Sullivan for the committee said the committee had no right to withdraw any candidates hominated by the convention. If the nominated by the convention were filled.

BY THE TIMES SPECIAL WIRE

CLEVELAND (O.,) Oct. 6.—(Special Dispatch.) The Cleveland police have taken in charge a remarkable monstrosity in the shape of a human ape. It is the infant daughter of Mary Donnelly, who has been arrested times innumerable on the charge of intoxication, and spends most of her time in the workhouse. Saturday night Mary started out on a spree with the baby in her arms. She forgot the precious load she car-ried, and left it lying on a doorstep. A ried, and left it lying on a doorstep. A policeman took it to the central station. A single garment covered the little forlorn. It was torn and ragged and covered with filth and vermin. A pair of shoes and stockings were put on the child. Nothing is moving except a few passenger trains, Sat-urday night the dispatchers at Smith's Falls, the only ones who remained at work, and who had charge of 338 miles of road, went out. The telegraphers, the Austin dispatch says, stand firm, and seem to have the sympathy of the public all along the Canadian Pacific. At many places objection is made to any one else attempting to perform telegraphic duties. The employés of the train service have been restrained with difficulty from taking part in the strike. This is the reason the chiefs of their orders have gone to Montreal. Committees of engineers, firemen, con-ductors and brakemen on the west-end have notified the officials that they will not risk their lives with inexperienced telegraphers. It is reported the road is losing $75,000$ a day. Cattle are starving in the cars, and goods from China and Japan are lying idle at Vancouver Island, awaiting shipment. Ships lying in port more than a week awaiting cattle have been ballasted preparatory to sailing for England without eargo. HAVANA, Oct. 5.—An important engagement, in which Gen. Serafin Sanchez, the well-known insurgent leader, was killed, has been fought at Reserva Plantation, province of Matanzas. Sanchez was one of the most widely known Cuban leaders. He served under Maximo Gomez in the previous Cuban insurrection.

The annual fair in aid of the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum opened at Turn-verein Hall last evening, with a brill-iancy that augured well for its suc-cess. The fair is given under the aus-Bar | Company pices of the Sisters of Charity, as-sisted by the Catholic ladies of Los Angeles. The hall presents even a more beautiful appearance than it did last year the booths, which line the three walls being arranged with exceedingly artistic effect, and filled with innum erable attractions. The opening address was deliv-ered by the Rt. Rev. Bishop George Montgomery, in his usual genial man ner. Quartettes were sung by Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Rowan, Jr., Miss Jennie Winston and J. T. E. During the remainder of the evening the orchestra rendered delightful music. The platform was occupied by the following gentlemen: Bishop Montgomery, T. E. Gibbon, W. H. Workman, John Keneally, L. A. Grant, Victor Ponet, Rev. Father Adam, and Father Stockman of Santa Barbara.

merry chatter of pretty vendors, as they circled among the crowds, selling shares and snaring patrons for their booths, mingled with the clatter of the whirling razzle-dazzle, and the lively strains of the orchestra.

At the right of the entrance is the pretty hat booth, artistically wreathed with smilax, while over the arch "Old Glory" testifies to the patriotic sentiments of those within. The booth is presided over by Mrs. Agnes Gelcich, assisted by the Misses Dawson, Grace Rhodes, Lena Reed and Lupe and Veronica Gelcich. An oil painting of the San Gabriel Mission, the gift of Miss Gelcich, and a silver water pitcher, donoted by Mrs. Gelcich, will be raffled from this quarter. Next door is the "wheel of fortune" booth, over the arches of which smilax and brighthued morning glories run riot. Here presides Mrs. S. RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Judge Noyes Decides Against the RIVERSIDE Oct. 5.-(Regular Correspondence.) Judge Noyes of the Superior Court today rendered judgment in favor of the city for $31 against Treasurer Bowman. There has, for some months, been a question of the right of the City Treasurer to collect right of the City Treasurer to collect as his salary 1 per cent of all funds passing through his hands. The Trus-tees passed an ordinance fixing the Treasurer's salary at $50 per month. The Treasurer received nearly $100,000 The Treasurer received nearly $100,000 for street-improvement and electriclight bonds, and only a small portion of this had been paid out at the time of the fixing of the salary. Mr. Bowman claimed commission on the bond money. The decision is that the cannot collect commissions on the money paid into the treasury for bonds, but must accept the salary as established by the Trustees.

The fact seems to be, that at about 11 o'clock Saturday evening an attachment for Saturday evening, an attachment for $20 was placed on the paper, and, owing to the unseasonable hour, it took some time to raise funds to free the stock of paper, so that the Sunday morning issue could come out on time.

Sheriff Johnson has gone up North, and it is reported that his object is to talk with Mollno, who confessed com-pilcity in the murder of Mrs. Platt, to get pointers to use against the three indians now awaiting trial for the murder. Whatever may be the outcome unthe trial, it is evident that Sheriff Johnson and his deputies are doing their utmost to redeem the county from the stain of the murder.

SANTA MONICA.

Completion of Half a Century of Pas toral Work Celebrated.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 5.—(Regular ndence:) Special services were Correspondence:) Special services were held in the Methodist Church Sunday evening in celebration of the comple tion by the pastor, Rev. William Stev enson, of fifty years of service in the Methodist ministry. In his sermon Mr. Stevenson touched upon some of the remarkable changes that have taken place during his half-century of serv-ice. When he became a circuit rider in Indiana, fifty years ago, there were no settlements of white people west of the Missouri River. The now populous States between that stream and the Pacific Coast were known as the "Great American Desert."

Mr. Stevenson has served in twentyfour pastoral charges. The first was in Indiana, and the others have been in Illinois, Kansas and California. Of the 140 members of the "effectiverank" (being those in condition for actual service) in the first conference of which he was a member, the only one besides himself now in actual service

the quarterly meetings and annual conferences held in those days. He said the equipment for a young preacher then was a horse, saddle and bridle, together with a set of saddle-bags for holding his bible, hymbook and wearing apparel. The equipment for a young preacher in these days includes a Saratoga trunk, a bicycle and a fairly elaborate private library.

Mr. Stevenson has an interesting history outside his pastoral work. For three years he was a near neighbor of Abraham Lincoln in Springfield, Ill. He knew the future President well, and can tell numerous anecdotes in reference to him. Mr. Stevenson was actively engaged in securing troops for the suppression of the rebellion. He made the first war speech in Hancock county, Ill., and assisted in raising three regiments. He was personally associated with Bishops Ames and Simpson. He saw the first railway passenger train in the United States, which ran from Philadelphia to Trenton in 1832. There was a big body of the California youngsters in the orchestra and enough "others" to fill the remainder of the house with the usual Monday night the waster of the house with the usual Monday night human crush. The bill this week is right up to the top notch of excellence, and everything goes with a swish and a swing that is exhiliarating, 'the Vassar Quartette opening the hilarity with their breezy sketch, which caught on as usual. Mile. Alma repeated her novel feat on the electric globe, and was generously applauded for her skill as an equilibrist. A pair of newcomers are Eldora and Novine, the latter a dusky-complexioned young woman who patters about the stage in sabots as assistant to her male companion, who, barring Cinquvalli, who set the Esst blazing with his fame as a juggler and equilibrist, is perhaps the greatest in the business, He does dozens of feats of dexterity and skill with the most perfect ease and adroitness, and is, in his line, by long odds the greatest artist the Orpheum has ever seen. His tricks of juggling and balancing are nearly all new and his performance alone is worth the price of admission. Marguerite Ferguson is another newcomer. She is a clever dancer and contortionist, and will easily pass as a boneless wonder in any soclety.

comer. She is a clever dancer and contortionist, and will easily pass as a boneless wonder in any soclety. Filson and Errol repeated their great comedy sketch, "Women vs. Men," and kept the house convulsed with laughter from the moment they came on the stage. As a bit of legitimate comedy this sketch has never had an equal on the vaudeville stage in this city. Mismated couples who are wont to have domestic "scraps" should take a few lessons from this team, and learn just how to do it and also learn how it appears to the listeners. Ferguson and Mack are a famous team of Irish comedians, who do a big knockabout act that is full enough of horse play and rough enough to delight the gamins under the skylight, and Abdulla fetches the bill to a wind-up with his great climb and slide on the slanting thread of steel. The same bill all the week. HAZARD'S PAVILION. "The Em-HAZARD'S PAVILION. "The Embassy Ball," given last evening by the Wilber stock company, was sufficiently cheap and filling at the price to draw quite a large audience of the class which applauds with rapture everything that happens, be it grave or gay, lively or severe. The gallery had its usual fringe of vociferous delties, and small boys with patches in the region where they are most needed, pervaded the house at all times and seasons with discordant shrieks of "Popcorn, peanuts, chewing-gum and seasons with discordant shrieks of "Popcorn peanuts, chewing-gum and candy." Of the chewing-gum the audience stood in small need, as all jaws wagged in unison. The play, in spite of its name, has very little of the embassy ball about it, being a lurid tale of the "East Lynne" variety, with the pathetic young woman drenched in tears, a dashing widow, and an orthodox villain with a lovely black moustache. There is also a painfully precoclous child, with uncommonly thin legs and a gift for clinching every subject that comes up with one of those artless bon mots that evoke shrieks from the gallery and little gushes of appreciation from every fond mamma in the audience. Alice Roseland does the dashing widow, who acts as mentor to her somewhat erratic and weak-kneed married sister, and incidentally flirts with Cholmondelers a voice men who let we removed. ratic and weak-kneed married sister, and incidentally firits with Cholmondeley, a young man who is by no means such a fool as he looks. This part is taken by Charles Eldridge, and is the cleverest in the piece. For the rest, Beatrice Fane, the married sister of the widow so far forgets herself as to run away with the villain, entranced, doubtless, by his cream-colored overto run away with the villain, entranced, doubtless, by his cream-colored over-coat lined with scarlet satin. The precoclous child promptly falls off the balcony, and the first acts ends in agony and despair, leaving the audience in some doubt as to whether or not she has finally broken her neck. She revives in time to do a remarkable song and dance turn in the next act, when her repentant mamma has returned to the bosom of her family, leaving the villain in the lurch. Nothing daunted the villain also returns, and makes things lively for the family and makes things lively for the family ing daunted the villain in the luren, ing daunted the villain also re and makes things lively for the until he is neatly killed off by mondeley, and the family holds mondeley, and the family holds a jub-ilation over the cadaver. BURBANK THEATER. The Ideal Opera Company, in that tuneful and ever-popular comic opera, "Olivette," was greeted with a large and enthusiastic audience last evening at the Burbank Theater. The plece is exceedingly well put on, the soloists are good and the chorus is well trained and sings with a vigor and precision that is refreshing. The lively choruses which close the first and second act won well-deserved encores, and the "Torpedo and the Whale" had to be sung four times before the audience was satiated with its musical measures. Jolly Gracle Plaisted is in her element again and sings the part of Olivette with all her old-time spirit. Daise Thorne is charming as the Countess. Her pretty waltz song in the first act was warmly encored, and her duet with Miss Plaisted in the second act was one of the most delightful numbers in the opera. Miss Thorne's solo, "When Twilight Comes," was also very sweetly sung and received an encore. Miro Delamotta was excellent as Valentine and won an encore in his serenade which he sang very enjoyably. O. W. Kyle made a good Capt. de Merrimac and Fred W. Huntley did some good work as the Duke. Ludwig Semler took the part of the senseschal, and Emma Benson made a shapely cabin boy. Will Manning as Coquielicot, was absurdly funny and did some of the best work in the plece-His make-up was grotesquely uncanny, and he seemed to have lost that usually important section of the human anatomy, the spinal column, while his wobbly legs seemed in momentary danger of disjointing. His solo, "Bob Up Serenely," was greeted with roars of alughter and was encored again and again. The opera will be continued until Thursday evening, when "The Chimes of Normandy" will be heard. L. F. Gottschalk, the musical director, deserves much credit for the excellent production of the opera. O. W. Kyle is the stage manager and F. E. ATTRACTION TONIGHT. The Frawley Company, which has a host of admirers in Los Angeles, opens at the Los Angeles Theater tonight in Augustin Daly's adaptation from the German "The Great Unknown," which, in its English dress is said to be a most charming and delightul play. We are told that it has a sort of a plot, more than some recently-presented comedies can boast; but its great feature is the startling succession of strangely tangled situations, all of which right themselves eventually. In the second act, Blanche Bates, as Etna, gives a wonderful exhibition of the most ardent and vigorous love-making. Her partner in these amorous gymnastics, Frank Worthing, who as Cousin Ned, made a great hit, is simply nowhere compared with her in the cyclonic love passage.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Cincinnati, O., says that Charles Thorp, aged 65, a wealthy gentleman of Birmingham, Eng., has been married to the sweetheart of his youth, who had been separated from him by death for over forty years. The wedding occurred at a private residence on Seventh street, and was witnessed by a number of highly-rewitnessed by a number of highly-re-spectable and intelligent people, some of whom are well-known to society, and who are willing to vouch for the oc-

Among those present were Dr. H. M. Slosson and wife of this city, who were invited there by a spiritualistic medium, who claims she is gifted with the power of materializing spirits.

In speaking of the occurrence, the Dr. and Mrs. Slosson said it was the most remarkable demonstration they had ever witnessed. They also said they were fully convinced that no fraud or deception had been practiced. the power of materializing spirits.

no fraud or deception had been practiced.

While the medium was visiting the large cities of the country propounding the doctrines of spiritualism and giving exhibitions of spiritualism and giving exhibitions of spiritualistic manifestations, she met Thorp at Omaha. He called upon her at the hotel, and in the course of a conversation, stated that while a young man living in England he was engaged to marry a woman who had died before the date set for the wedding, and it was his ardent desire to converse with her. The medium granted him a sitting. Thorp afterward, in speaking of the occurrence, said he met his sweetheart in the form of a materialized spirit.

About a dozen sittings were had in different towns. At Chicago horp consulted the medium, and after telling her he had gained the consent of his former sweetheart, he request of the consent of his former sweetheart, he requested that a marriage ceremony be performed. This being a new departure in spiritualism, the medium doubted that the arrangements proposed by Thorp could be carried out. She, however, expressed a willingness to further test her powers as a medium, so she granted Thorp a trial, setting the place for the wedding in this city. On the afternoon preceding the event Thorp arrived in Cincinnati, and after consulting with the medium, went to a florist and ordered an abundance of flowers to adorn the room in which he was to be married. The test was to be made at 9 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock those who were bidden assembled. Less than a dozen persons were present. persons were present.

At 8:30 o'clock Thorp arrived, The room was darkened and not a single ray of light could be seen anywhere. Thorp was stationed at a point near the cabinet. For some time all sat silently in the darkness and gazed attentively toward the cabinet, expecting some manifestation. At last a sound like the rustling of a curtain was heard. It was the cabinet being opened. Through the aperture came a phosphorescent light, the soft rays faintly illuminating the face and form of Thorp and giving him a ghostly appearance. His face was then turned toward the cabinet.

Her hair was dark and her face, while it appeared robe of spotless white. Her hair was dark and her face, while it appeared deathlike, wore a smile of satisfaction. Just in front of where the two were standing another form, that of an elderly man, suddenly became visible and it, too, grew plainer as the moments passed until it resembled the form of one in flesh. This was the person who was to officiate at the wedding. The ceremony was much after the ordinary style of conducting marriages without the ring. At the conclusion of the ceremony he minister raised his hands above the heads of the bride and groom as though pronouncing a benediction on the union. The two materialized forms then slowly vanished away as they had come.

The cornerstone was bleased by Archbishop Feehan, after which addresses, historical of the institutions incidental to it, were made in five languages. The structure when completed will cost $25,000.

The hospital will be modern in every respect. Nothing that has been devised with the aid of science to provide sanitary surroundings has been overlooked. The building will not have a corner in it. Where corners usually are the surface of the walls, floor and ceilings will be rounded. No crevice will be left for dust to collect where it cannot be seen and removed. In all respects it will be a model institution for the care of patients.

In addition to serving the purpose of a hospital it will also serve as a novitiate for the training of young men for admission to the order. It is also the headquarters of the Brother Aloysius Shins, the head of the order in this country, an order that has been ministering to the sick since it was founded in Malines, nearly 700 years ago. Four hospitals are maintained in the United States by the Alexian Brothers. One is at St. Louis, Mo.; another at Oshkosh, Wis., and the fourth at Elizabeth, N. J.

Maguire's Operahouse in Butte. Mont., has been torn down to make room for a better investment. Maguire is a clever little Irishman, who once was manager of the Newmarket Theater in Portland. He used to re cite the "Charge of the Light Brigade' with a brogue so thick you could cut it with a knife. A subscriber to The Times asks what has become of David B. Hill, Senator from New York? We do not know. He may have "got lost in the shuffle that followed the stampede to Bryan at Chicago or he may have crawled into a hole and pulled the hole in after him. Hill as a citizen has taken so long to find out whether he was a man, a mouse or a long-tailed rat, that he is entirely lost sight of as an individual: and the only interest in him as a politician is co-equal with his term in the Senate which has nearly expired. No other public man in the last twenty years has come as near drowning himself in a dry ditch as Senator Hill.

The Popocrat lying-machine is turning out a very poor lot of rubbish just at present, but it may do better after Bryan gets out here and gives the other cranks a turn.

TODAY'S PRIMARIES.

The Republican city primaries ar to be held this afternoon. Upon the work there done will depend in a large degree the success of the movement which has been inaugurated for better municipal government. This movement has thus far made satisfactory progress. It should not be checked nor imperiled by reason of the neglect of honest voters to do their full duty.

A vote at the primaries today may be of far more weight in bringing about the much-needed reforms in our municipal government than a vote at the polls after the nominations have

It is the duty of every voter who believes in better government to attend the primaries today; and not only to attend, but to use his best powers of discrimination in casting his ballot. In all cases where a ticket or a can didate rests under a suspicion of being tainted with the influence of "the push," it or he should be unhesitatingly ejected. Honest Republican voters in the various precincts and wards have neans of learning the true situation of affairs in their respective precincts. It is the duty of each to use his utmost endeavors to prevent the success of any candidate who is known to be in league with the disreputable would-be bosses who are in politics solely for mischief, and whose influence is wholly a dollar as good as gold in any for evil.

Bear in mind what unity, energy pluck and action accomplished in the recent primaries and Republican County Convention, in the way of "turning down" the "push" and making a winning for the people, and repeat that victory.

Prompt action should be taken this morning to place new tickets in the field wherever such action is necessary to checkmate the gang. By wide-awake and timely work all along the line the cause of municipal reform can be immeasurably benefited. And in such a result every good citizen is vitally in-

LABOR'S LOSSES.

The American Protective Tariff league, some time ago, undertook an investigation of the number of wageearners employed and the amount of their earnings during the months of July, 1892, and July, 1896, these date being, respectively, two years after the enactment of the McKinley and the Gorman-Wilson tariffs. Reports have been received from 550 employers in thirty-six different States, who, in July 1892, afforded occupation for 114,231 hands. The same concerns could em ploy only 78,700 hands in July of this

As regards wages, the reports show that the amount paid in July, 1892, to the 114,231 hands, aggregated $3,927, 200; while the pay-rolls of the same establishments for July, 1896, after two years of the Gorman-Wilson tariff, aggregated only $2,469,712. The monthly average rate of wages, it is furthe shown, has declined from $34.50 to $31 among those who are at work. The number of idle hands in the 550 estab lishments was, as above shown, 35,531 The monthly loss of earnings to the wage-earners was $1,457,488. The de crease of employment, in other words was over 30 per cent., while the de crease in wages earned was over 40

As the American Economist points injurious to American industry than the present tariff, had it passed, as it was a much more radical free-trade measure than that which finally became a law. Bryan is on record as having given it as his deliberate opinion that even a 10-per-cent. protective tariff is "just as indefensible as a tariff of 1000 per cent.;" also, that protection is "the most vicious political principle Mr. Bryan could have had his way, the wages paid in the above-named establishments, and the number of hands employed, would have been reduced in a far greater proportion than they were reduced under the existing law. Mr. Bryan is wise in refusing to discampaign. There is nothing that he could say on that subject that would help his candidacy. But the people are thinking about this question; and the result of their thinking will be the overwhelming defeat of W. J. Bryan and the anarchistic aggregation of which he is the head and front. The tidal wave of popular approval, which is to land Mai McKinley in the White House, is already rising, and it will weep everything before it.

THOMAS V. CATOR AND THE OCTO.

The San Francisco Examiner charge that Buckley, the local political boss packed the Populist municipal convention of that city, and that his agent 'are busily engaged in carrying out his part of certain contracts entered into by him and a prominent Populist." The Examiner further says in effect that the Southern Pacific is supporting Mr. Cator for the United States Sen ate, and that the favoritism with which his candidacy is regarded by the Huntington crowd is causing great unrest and discontent in the Populist ranks

"The opposition of Huntington to Senator Perkins is well known. The latter gentleman has taken such a firm stand in opposition to the Refunding Bill that the railroad has no hope of his conversion to what it considers rvative view of the matter. There Herrin and Huntington and the est of the manipulators in the big ellow building have decided to support ator. They are now comforting him his fight. The Populist candidate pledged to oppose the Refunding II, but the railroad would rather ke up a new man than the Bill, but the railroad would rather take up a new man than try its insidious arguments again where they have failed once. Here also step in the stanchest friends of Cator among the stanchest friends of Cator among the Populists. In order to protect him from the charge of railroad leanings, they say he should not be held responsible for any friendship the Southern Pacific may display toward him. If the railroad managers think he would make a worthy representative of California in the Senate of the United States, of course they have a right to support him. But other Populists support him. But other Populists shake their heads ominously and as-sert that the friendship of the Southern Pacific should be shunned as though it were a blight."

The spectacle of the Southern Pacific Railroad supporting the Populist canlidate for the United States Senate is ecidedly interesting, not to say edify ng. That such support should cause dissatisfaction" in the ranks of his sute statesmanship is not surprising The disreputable bargains and com binations that are being entered into to defeat Senator Perkins should be sufficient to insure his return to the Senate by a union of all the respectable elements in his favor.

Some three years ago the Venture Democrat, owned by the same man who now publishes it, had the following to say of Thomas V. Cator, an aspirant to the United States Senate:

"If there is or ever has been a political mountebank in this State, wh has made political jugglery a profes-sion and a study, that individual is Thomas V. Cator. He seems to be not only an unprincipled political advenurer, but a scoundrel on general prin

Yet the Democrat is advocating the election of Assemblymen favorable to Cator. Nuf ced!

WASHINGTON'S WORDS

Washington, in his farewell address o the people of the United States, made a statement which it is well to reproduce at this present time. He

"The basis of our political systems is the right of the people to make and to alter their constitutions of government. But the Constitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The very idea of the power and the right of the people to establish gov-ernment presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established gov-

It is eminently fitting that these vords of Washington should be read and carefully considered by all Americans of the present day. Let them ask themselves how they can reconcile his statement with the statement embodied in the Chicago platform, which, instead of teaching obedience to the laws, hurls deflance at the laws, Again he says:

"All obstructions to the execution of the laws, all combinations and asso ciations, under whatever plausible character, with the real design to direct, control, counteract, or awe the regular deliberation and action of the onstituted authorities, are destructive of this fundamental principle, and of fatal tendency. They serve to organize faction, to give it an artificial and extraordinary force, to put in the place of the delegated will of the nation the will of a party, often a small but artful and enterprising minority of the community; and, according to the al-ternate triumphs of different parties, to make the public administration the mirror of the ill-concerted and incon-gruous projects of faction, rather than the organ of consistent and wholesome digested by common councils and modified by mutual interests. How-As the American Economist points out, in this connection, W. J. Bryan, while in Congress, worked and voted for the passage of the original Wilson bill, which would have been far more the same interests. However combinations or associations of the above description may now and then answer popular ends they are likely, in the course of time and things, to become potent engines by things, to become potent engines by which cunning, ambitious and unprin-cipled men will be enabled to subvert the power of the people and to usur for themselves the reins of governmen destroying often the very engine destroying often the very engines which have lifted them to unjust do-

Contrast again these words of Wash ington with the principles laid down and advocated in the Chicago platform Go further, and see if the "combina that has ever cursed this country." If tions" of which he speaks, by which "cunning, ambitious and unprincipled men will be enabled to subvert the power of the people," are not strangely like unto the free-silver combinations now at work and which are seeking to gain control of the government. His words seem prophetic of the conditions now existing; but, like him who devoted his life's work to his country, so will all Americans today feel it their duty to put forth their efforts to avert the dangers to which he drew attention one hundred years ago.

Bryan's speech at Paterson, N. J. some days ago, was one of his usual exhibitions of begging the question and dodging the real issue. As usual he avoided the tariff altogether, and, when he reached the silver question he tackled that in his usual evasive way. He said: "Bimetallism can only exist where two metals are admitted to the mints on equal terms and coined into money or legal tender at a fixed ratio by law, and our platform not only declares for free coinage, but it fixed the ratio of 16 to 1, the present ratio." This is in the disingenuous spirit which characterizes all his utterances He knows very well that if wheat were made the medium of exchange, instead of silver, and a dollar should be mad equivalent to a bushel of the cereal that dollar would be dependent on the wheat market and follow it up and down in all its many fluctuations.

The name "Better City Governmen League" is certainly a very modes one. It would be different to imagine a worse city government than we have nad under the present City Council a (and the Mayor.)

JUST FOUR WEEKS LONGER.

Four weeks from today will be fough the most important political battle of the last forty years. In 1860 the question was one of national unity, now it is one of national honor and the pres ervation of the national credit. Why is all this commotion over the preservation of our national credit?

It is because we are a debtor nation and cannot afford to repudiate our indebtedness. If we were not a stirring, restless, energetic people, we would not be in debt. We were over three centuries old before we had a single railway across the continent. built one in 1869, and in less than others. To do this we had to horrow oney of European nations who do usiness upon a gold basis. Therefore it stands to reason that the lenders of that money must be repaid in the ry same sort of coinage.

This is simply a plain, business prop sition and a proposition of comm that we take silver and our Europea creditors have got to do the same. If we had been compelled to borrow money only in America, we could not have gotten it. We were obliged to go to Europe, where, owing to gradual accumulation of wealth for centuries, the rate of interest was low Those parties who loaned us their gold must be paid in like currency.

Against this straightforward and honest proposition are arrayed a class who have no fixed principles on any pending question of a national character; and an element that seems to have no higher aim than to breed dis sent and sectional hatred by arraying the West against the East. Thank God! the next twenty-eight days will relegate most of them to well-deserved obscurity; and when this craze shall have died away and reason resume her wonted sway in the breasts of the American people, the nation will loom up grander and stronger than ever while the schemers who would traffic on her honor and integrity shall be banished into merited oblivion: "After the vote is taken, After the end is known, After the jays are leaving, After the snaps have flown, Many a heart will be breaking trange bed-fellows" finds some singular exemplifications in this campaign One of the most curious instances in that of Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama, who is one of Bryan's strong est advocates in the whole South Senator Morgan is a man with an unblemished record as a national legis lator, and one whom no professiona obbyist would dare approach to solicit his vote on any pending propo He is, moreover, the strongest advo cate of the proposition to construct the Nicaragua Canal, as he believes it would make a great commercial city of New Orleans as well as of Mobile, in his own State, for they would l the first American seaports to be reached by vessels coming from the Orient. And here he is, whooping it up with all his might for Bryan, a selfregistered enemy of the canal, although Mr. Bryan may deny that. But the absence of a Nicaragua Canal plank in the Chicago platform tells the whole story. Had there been no National Republican Convention held first and foremost, there might possibly be some excuse for the non-appearance of ar inter-oceanic canal plank in the Popo crat manifesto. But McKinley was nominated on a canal plank, and the alleged Democracy could not plead ignorance of the canal having become a strictly national question. It will make a big difference to Mr. Bryan's vote in the Pacific States, whose people are looking to the canal as their sole hope of deliverance from the oppression of railways.

The Chicago convention, which nomnated Mr. Bryan for the Presidency and passed the resolutions to which he gave his unqualified acceptance was silent upon the Nicaragua Cana question because it was a convention that was composed of Mississippi Valley Populists. It was an aggregation of desperate political adventurers who had no aim above fomenting dissen sion between the States they repre sented and the far East; and because the Pacific States were represented by mer of too much intelligence and practica good sense to be pulled into a sectional fight on such an occasion, they could get no hearing in the matter of the canal.

Moreover, those Populists who go control of that convention are decidedly opposed to the Pacific States on ge eral principles. They know that it is easier to produce $300 worth of fruit to the acre in Southern California than it is to raise $100 to the acre in Kansas or Nebraska. They know that it is not only easier to produce forty-five bushels of wheat to the acre in Oregon than twenty-eight bushels in Kansa or Iowa, but they also know that flour made from Columbia River wheat will make thirty pounds more of bread to the barrel than any wheat grown to the eastward of the Rocky Mountains. They know that the Boise Valley, in Idaho, produces the finest prunes and peaches grown in America: that the cherries of the Willamette Valley and Puget Sound are far ahead of anything they can raise; and that the only staple on which they can beat the Pacific States is Indian corn. Hence their anxiety to shut the Pacific States out from all chance to compete with them in the markets of the manufacturing States which do not produce their own breadstuffs.

The absence of a Nicaragua Cana plank from the Chicago platform is simply the result of jealousy on the part of the Populists who got control deliberations for their own selfish ends. We are sorry to see so worthy a man Senator Morgan in such company, for he has not only been at all times an open and manly advocate of the Nicaragua Canal, but we of Southern California have another good cause to respect and admire him. In Los Aneles' long and bitter fight against the Southern Pacific corporation on the narbor question, last March, she found Senator Morgan all right on our side and at all times a most sincere friend.

However, there is no great need to worry over it. Senator Morgan will be able to go to the Senate from Ala-Bryan will drop into retirement in four weeks more, and won't be of much import to anybody, either as a friend or an enemy. The Nicaragua Canal will be built some of these days; and the California farmer will be enabled through cheaper transportation to the Atlantic seaboard, to retain some portion of the money that now goes the railroad coffers. By the time that work is completed, the fertility of our soil will be perceptibly diminished, but the expense of getting his crops to market will be so much reduced that the farmer will be a great deal better off than he is now.

Ex-Senator Cornelius Cole's narra tion of the "crime of 1873" to a reporter of the Evening Record shows that erratic gentleman to be painfully forgetful of the history of important egislation on the silver question, espe cially where he says that "there was less than two hours' discussion on the bill." The ex-Senator must certainly know that it was introduced in the Senate while he represented this State, which was not after March 3, 1873. The public records show that it was three years in process of consideration, having been printed no less than thirteen times while occupying the attention of both houses. The debates in the Senate occupy sixty-six columns of the Congressional Record, and the House debates seventy-eight columns The admission of the Senator that he did not know the contents of a bill that was three years before Congress is omewhat damaging to himself. A forcible communication on this subject has been sent to The Times, and is only declined for the reason that we have repeatedly given the legislative istory of the alleged "crime of '73," the last time only a few days since with the dates and circumstances in full detail.

Tillman, of pitchfork notoriety, is to e pitied as much for his awkward English as for his manifest disloyalty In his Philadelphia speech, the other light, he said:

"The new Democratic party will take these rascally judges by the throat, and learn them that there is some lib-erty in the land."

For a man who has twice taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, as Senator and Govrnor, in the short space of four years, this Tillman is a splendid specimen of citizenship. Who can vote for Bryan on a platform of which Tillman is one of the authors? Mr. Bryan is one of those politicians who can always be relied to "put his foot in it," at least once a week. He said recently that "a cause is like a man and is always known by the company it keeps." The company in which he was found at Chicago was that of Tillman, Altgeld, Debs and others of that stripe, all enemies of good government. That is why the old free-soil Democrats of California are flocking to the standard of Mai. McKinley. They have nothing against Bryan but the company he keeps and that is enough.

Speaking of Mr. Kolb of Alabama deserting Tom Watson for Sewall, the San Antonio Express says that "the goats are rapidly becoming separated from the sheep." We take this occasion to remind the Express that Kolb is a German name signifying neither goat nor sheep, but calf. It is, therefore, a plain duty on Sewall's part to kill the fatted son for the prodigal calf has come home.

Fresno celebrates today the compleion of the Valley road to that place They are to have a grand barbecue, for which Henry Miller, the great cattle reeder, contributes half a ton of beef Trains from Stockton will reach there just before noon, and the vats of Fresno will furnish the vintages of the occasion. Good luck to the Raisin City, and may all her troubles be peedily at an end.

.The greatness of some self-ventilat ng men is evanescent. Let Mr. Bryan ook upon the meteoric career of Adolph Sutro, who went up a rocket in San Francisco and came down a stick at the Cliff House; less than two years ago. The Boy Orator should take warning, especially as the difference between them lies in the fact that Sutro actually did get elected.

Chauncey M. Depew is making a few of the kind of speeches that make votes-speeches that are full of appeals to patriotism and intelligence, instead of prejudice and intolerance. Mr. Depew enjoys the reputation of being personally popular, but his speeches would not count for much if he were not advocating principles that are popular also.

The substitution of W. E. Porter for John Boyd Thacher, by the New York Democracy, was evidently a trick to catch the immense German vote of New York City. They thought the Germans would vote for Porter because they are fond of their beer. Gesundheit!

The Republicans of San Lius Obispo county have nominated Capt. Mark

Harloe for the Assembly from the Sixty-seventh district. The captain is a very worthy and excellent man, a resident of this State for more than forty the Senator, Kalorama and Constantine of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company.

Under its new management, the San Bernardino Sun is doing some really good work for Senator Perkins's re election to the position he so creditably fills. Mr. Harbison is well deserving the good wishes of publicans in that county.

THE TIMES LEAFLET NO. 17.

Cut this out and put it in your pocket for Some attention was given in the last easiet to the charge that the act of 1873 was surreptitiously passed.

It may be interesting also to see It may be interesting also to see whether its enactment proved disastrous to the country in any way.

A good way to test this is to see how the condition of the country in 1880 compared with that of 1870, since one-half of the years between 1870 and 1880 passed without the coinage of any standard sliver dollars, and there were coined but 53,000,000 of them during the entire decade.

In 1870 the total money of the country amounted to $722,868,461. In 1880 the try amounted to $122,868,461. In 1880 the total money in the country amounted to $1,205,929,197, an increase of 60 per cent. Does that look as though the country was ruined by the crime of 1873?

to $1,205,929,197, an increase of 60 per cent. Does that look as though the country was rulined by the crime of 1873?

In 1870 the money in the country amounted to $18.73 for each individual; in 1880 it amounted to $24.04 for each individual, or per capita, as it is called. Thus the amount of money in the country increased much faster than the population during that fatal decade in which the "crime" was committed, and the country was kept for five long years without the coinage of a single standard dollar. Does that look as though the people suffered for currency because of the "crime of 1873?"

In 1870 the wealth of the country amounted to $780 per individual; in 1880 it in 1870 the amount of money paid as wages by the manufacturers of the United States amounted to $776,000,000; in 1880 it amounted to $476,000.000. In 1870 the number of people finding employment in the manufacturing establishments of the country was 2,054,000; in 1880 the number was 2,738,000. In 1870 the goods turned out by the manufacturers of the United States amounted to $5.570,000,000, a gain of over a billion dollars in the decade. Does this look as though there had been a scarcity of money or a depression of business in that "dark decade" in which we were without the light of free coinage of silver?

In 1870 the average wages of labor stood at 137 in gold, taking the rate paid in 1860 as the unit of 100. In 1880 they stood at 143 upon the same unit or basis of calculation, thus showing a marked increase in wages during that decade of no free coinage. Does this look as though the country or the people disadvantageously?

In 1870 the average wages of labor stood at 105, compared with the same unit, thus showing a marked fall in the cost of living while there had been meantime a marked increase in the wages earned. Does this look as though the years in which no stand had been coined had been especially disastrous?

A comparison of 1870 with 1890 would produce much more startling contrasts, but 1880 has been chosen for the comparison because the years 1870 and 1880 are the beginning and the end of a decade in which it is claimed that a great financial crime was committed and retained as an absolute pall over the country until within twenty-two months of the end of that decade.

Think it over. Remember that the suspension of free coinage occurred only about two years after the census of 1870 and that it has never been resumed. Then remember that the wealth of the country jumped from $780 per capita in 1870 to $1,039 in 1890 in the absence of free coinage. Remember that the wealth of the country free coinage.

capita in 1870 to $1,039 in 1890 in the absence of free coinage. Remember that labor will earn more gold today than it did in 1870, despite the constant assertion that gold has appreciated since the suspension of the free coinage of silver. Remember too that the dollars thus earned will buy much more than they would at that time. Remember that the country was never so prosperous as it was four years ago when the people were persuaded to vote for free trade. Then consider whether it is free silver plus free trade that you want for the next four years.

The retirement of Joseph Petrich restores to the Grand Operahouse (now the Orpheum) a face that is familiar and welcome. Under the new regime inaugurated at that theater by Gustav Walter, Martin Lehman, one of the most popular of local amusement caterers, becomes assistant director and Charles Schimpf, for a long time treasurer in the box office, becomes resident manager. The latter has richly earned his promotion, upon which he received the congratulations of a host of friends yesterday and last evening. If the attention of the authorities is called to this matter, the trouble may be rectified, but just at present it is distressing to the philanthropic mind to see so many women so uncomfortable, when a little forethought might obviate the difficulty. WHIRRING WHEELS.

SOUTH SIDE CYCLING CLUB'S BLUI

The South Side Cycling Club is composed of about forty athletic young men, all of whom do a little bicycle-racing. To develop the latent crackafacks the club has decided upon holding five blue-ribbon meets. The first of these was held at Agricultural Park September 9, and there was an auof these was held at Agricultural Park September 9, and there was an audience of about four hundred present. Yesterday the second meet of the series was held. Athletic Park was the scene, and a small admission fee was charged. There was a small but enthusiastic audience on the stand and all of the races were fast for the class of riders who took part. Hardly any of the contestants were over sixteen, and none were out of their teens.

At the first meet Raiph Hamlin, who got third place in the Santa Monica road race and who is the captain of the S-S.C.C., showed up the best, and his form yesterday was still more surprising.

S.S.C.C., showed up the best, and his form yesterday was still more surprising.

The first race was a mile handicap, with the limit men at 200 yards. Brotherton, Morris and Ledbetter were on scratch. The handicapping was very poor and of course the limit man, Sidney Boerstler, won unheaded. A. L. Best, with 175 yards, rode most of the distance with the limit man and they made a close finish. W. Brotherton was the only scratch man to work up through the bunch and he finished fourth. His time was 2:26, the best time of the day, except in the paced mile open. Pearne, who did so well on Admission day, got third from fifty yards. Time for the first man in was not taken by the timers.

There were two trial heats and a final in the mile open. The first heat was ridden in 2:54 and won by Hough, a new man, who resembles Hill of Pasadena both in looks and riding. He got about ten feet start of the others on the push-off by his "push-off" beating the pistol. Brotherton made a good fight all the way down the homestretch, but could not pick up the length difference. Morris got third, although he seemed to be sure of winning the heat on the back stretch. In the second heat there were four starters, but Ledbetter and Sanford fell on the second lap by keeping too close to the others who were on the pole single file. Hamlin won handlily in 2:30, with Sherman second. As Hamlin made most of the pace, it was really an unpaced record for him.

Then came the coasting match. Over a dozen riders took turn in starting second. As Hamilin made most of the pace, it was really an unpaced record for him.

Then came the coasting match. Over a dozen riders took turn in starting down the north bank and coasting up the back stretch. Most of them let their feet hang straight down, a few put their toes on the front forks and one placed his feet within the diamond frame. All got onto the south bank and some went half way around it. Sherman went the farthest and Manly, who they called "the bluebird," came next. Campbell was third and Hamilin fourth. The latter wanted to try the trip the second time, after the rest were through, because of a bad start, and succeeded in going beyond the marks of. all the rest.

There were three post races as both trial heats were run as separate races, for a system of points is kept by the South Sides to determine the championship of the club. In the first heat or race the starters were Hamilin, Brotherton, Hough, Austin and Podlech. Hamilin made twelve points, Hough and Brotherton each scoring five. The time was 2:29, and Hamilin rode unpaced most of the way. The second heat had Sherman, Campbell, Manly, the "bluebird," and Farris. Sherman got nine points, Campbell, Manly, the "bluebird," and Farris. Sherman got nine points, Campbell eight and Manly five. Time 2:39.

The final of the mile open was run right after the trial of the mile post, and was tandem paced with Wellington and partner up. The starters were Hamilin, Hough, Brotherton and Sherman. There was a time limit of 2:25, but it was not heeded for Hamilin took after the tandem and finally got up. Brotherton and Hough kept on and finished in that order.

The quarter-mile dash was run in a single heat, and won by Hamilin, Howard getting second and Morris holding third. It was a warmly contested race.

The final of the mile post was ridden in 2:36%, each ap but one being

The final of the mile post was ridden in 2:35%, each lap but one being won, by Hamlin, who scored twelve points, Sherman made eight and Brothpoints, Sherman made eight and Brotherton five.

The mile and a half team race was original and interesting, the contestants sprinting every lap for points, which, like the post race, scored three, two and one for the first three men to finish. This made three half-mile races run in succession. The first finish was then the second team of the second tea to finish. This made three half-mile races run in succession. The first finish was Hamlin, Morris and Pearne; the mile, Hamlin, Morris and Pearne; the mile, Hamlin, Morris and Pearne; ton and Sherman. Hamlin's team won with eleven points, Brotherton's team getting seven. Time 4:04%.

The last race of the day was a two-mile handicap, which had sixteen starters, most of whom were on the hundred yards mark. The scratch men were Hough. Hamlin, Morris and Brotherton. Best with the limit of 350 yards pounded along half the distance a half-lap ahead of the field, and three-quarters of a lap ahead of the scratch men. By the end of the mile though, Hough had somehow got clear past everybody but Best, and was hot after him. The effort was too much though, and the field was getting dangerously close. Then Best gave out and dropped back. At the seventh time around, Manly, who had fifty yards, and Brotherton were leading and the other scratch men were in a bunch. When the race ended, Hough won, with scarcely a foot to spare, Manly was second, Brotherton third, Hamlin fourth. Time 5:03.

THAT IS THE CRY OF THE HURLED DIRECTORS.

How One Director Thinks They Might Succeed in Raising Over Four Million Dollars.

A Radical Director Who Thinks the Company Should Pay Some At-tention to Making a

He complained that the smell of the garbage, as it was hauled past the barn to the crematory, was so overpowering that he could scarcely collect his thoughts. He thought that since a new sucker had been found, the company ought to be able to afford to rent a more decent. be able to afford to rent a more decent be able to afford to rent a more decent sort of place for their meetings. The president replied that, in spite of the recent accession of financial sup-port, the finances of the company were in such shape that they could not af-ford to pay out more than was absolutely necessary. The owner of the barn, he said, had allowed them to use barn, he said, had allowed them to use it without charge, in return for a dozen free copies of the paper, which he found useful for sanitary purposes. "Then, besides," the president added, "the present location is a retired one, and to that extent has advantages which we could not find up town." Director Canlittle observed that, as far as the last remark of the president was concerned, the meetings were reported fully in The Times every week, and therefore he did not see that the question of location cut any figure. President Howlittle then stated that during the past week he had been making a further investigation of the financial condition of the Hurled, and was sorry to have "o inform them that things did not appear any better as they were probed into, but rather the opposite. In short, the outlook was not at all cheerful, Not only would it be impossible to make any "divvy" among the stockholders from the money that had been obtained from the new sucker, but it would be absolutely necessary to strictly enforce the tendollar assessment which had been levied. At this there was a loud murmur among the directors, who conferred with each other in excited undertones. Continuing, President Howlittle said that Director Amilitle had been sent to San Francisco for the purpose of trying to dig up a little more financial support before election.

Director Canlittle expressed the opinion that the company ought to be working the sucker market for all it is worth. "Why." said he, "should we confine our energies to hunt for a single sucker when there are so many to be had? To paraphrase a well-known saying: 'One sucker does not make a summer.'" Continuing, Mr. Canlittle said that this might seem to be a somewhat involved simile, but what he meant was that a single sucker would not keep the Hurled Company in bread and butter, let alone such delicaces as turkey and champagne. He would advise that they should appoint agents in all the large cities of the country to obtain fresh suckers for the Hurled, supplying them with sworn coo, which would enable them to defy The Times, the colonel, and the dog, and to run the paper as they pleased, either with or without news.

The remarks of Director Canlittle were received by rounds of applause. The president stated that the suggestion was a good one, and he would take it under consideration.

Director Doolittle called attention to the statement which had recently been published in The Times, refuting the claim of larger circulation made by the Hurled, giving the exact circulation of the two papers in various cities and towns, and showing that the aggregate circulation of The Times was 50 per cent, greater than that of the Hurled, even including the thousands of deadhead subscribers. He asked what the management intended to do about this. Mr. Doolittle said he had not been able to understand what the company was doing in making such an absurd bluff as to claim a larger circulation than The Times, when they all knew that, even reckoning the thousands of free copies, the circulation was not near that of The Times; but he had supposed that they understood what they were doing, and so had said nothing on the subject. Now, however, he would like to ask the president how they intended to crawl out of the hole that The Times had put them in.

The president replied that they did not intend to do anything. They had made the bluff for the effect which it would have on people of little intelligence, who constituted two-thirds of the subscription list of the Hurled. He was satisfied that some people had been influenced by it, and that was all they expected.

Mr. Doolittle asked whether the president imagined that any person who expected.

Doolittle asked whether the pres-Mr. Doolittle asked whether the pres-ident imagined that any person who had sense enough to run a business, and advertise, would be begulied by such a transparent device. To this the presi-dent made no reply. Director Damlittle wanted to know what was being done in regard to the campaign against the colonel and the dog. He had seen nothing in the Hurled on these subjects for a week or two.

Hurled on these subjects for a week or two.

The president said that the management had been so busy in connection with the increased circulation affidavits and the new sucker business that they had not found any time to keep up this important branch of the Hurled work, but that they intended now to push it with renewed vigor. A new assistant dog editor, who was proof against hydrophobia, had been imported from transas, and a regular dog department of the Hurled would shortly be started. Director Canlittle asked the president who was responsible for the so-called sliver edition" of the Hurled. Mr. Cantitle said that he had not found a single person who had anything good to ay in regard to that issue, while those had been induced to put up coin on the assurance that it was going to be a "great paper" were disgusted and indignant.

The president asked the directors not to be so extremely critical. The management was doing the best it could, but the directors should realize that while so much time was occupied in hunting for suckers and in running a campaign against the colonel and the dog, it was impossible to devote much time to the business of finding matter to insert in the columns of the Hurled. For his part, Mr. Howlittle said, he thought the directors should be very well satisfied if the Hurled came out every morning, even if it was occasionally a little late. Mr. Howlittle added that the biased and vindictive reports of their meetings which the Times was publishing every week were already reacting upon that despicable sheet. Only yesterday he had learned that a woman residing in Pasadena but stored the Times on account of already reacting upon that despleable sheet. Only yesterday he had learned that a woman residing in Pasadena had stopped the Times on account of what she considered the heartlessness of that paper in disclosing to the public the fact that the directors had to meet in a barn, and the stress to which the Hurled company was driven in order to keep its head above water.

Director Damlittle suggested that the work of carrying on the business of the Hurled ought to be systematized. He said that what they needed, above all, was more system. One time they would make a break on working up circulation (on paper;) another time on The Times; then on the colonel and the dog, and later on suckers. He thought they ought to make a combined and systematic effort in all these directions. He moved that four committees be appointed from among the directors, each to consist of one member, the various committees to handle the branches of circulation, affidavits, Times, colonel and dog, and suckers.

Director Doolittle expressed anxiety lest they should try and put too much work in the hands of a single commit-circulation, affidavits, Times, colonel and dog, and suckers.

Director Doolittle expressed anxiety lest they should try and put too much work in the hands of a single committee. He warned them that it was not wise to attempt to do too much at once, and suggested that the committee on colonel and dog should be segregated, so that there should be two separate committees, one to handle the colonel and the other the dog. The amendment was put and carried, and the president appointed each of the directrs a committee of one on the various matters, as follows:

On Circulation—Mr. Amilittle.

On Times—Mr. Canlittle,

On Colonel—Mr. Doolittle.

On Dog—Mr. Damilittle.

On Suckers—The president.

Mr. Canlittle then arose and said that while he might be considered radical, and indeed something of a socialist, he really thought that they ought to have a committee, or at least a subcommittee, on running the Hurled; that is to say, in arranging for news and other features that the public demand in connection with a daily newspaper. Mr. Canlittle said he rec-and other features that the public demand in connection with a daily newspaper. Mr. Canlittle said he recognized the difficulty under which the management labored in having to devote so much time to The Times, the colonel, the dog, and the suckers, but he thought that, if he might be permitted to say so, they ought to devote a small portion of their time to the object of making the Hurled such a paper as people would want to read a small portion of their time to the object of making the Hurled such a paper as people would want to read and pay for.

President Howlittle reminded Mr. Canlittle that if the programme outlined at the present meeting should be carried through, namely, to obtain 500 agents, each of whom should procure three suckers, with an average amount of $3000, they would not need to bother themselves about such details as the contents of a paper. Said Mr. Howlittle: "I take a broader view than some of you people. What is the use of fooling away our time in regard to the miserable little details of what we shall run or not run in the columns of this paper. Let us get plenty of suckers, and then let nature take its course. What do we care about the people, anyhow? Why, what with four-bit subscriptions, and deadhead subscriptions, every additional reader we get is an absolute loss to the company. What I say is: Get suckers, and plenty of them."

The sentiments of the president were loudly applauded by the directors. Three being no other business before the meeting, it was adjourned, to meet at the same time and place on Monday next.

At the close of the ward club meeting, precinct clubs were formed, and the entire ward was sub-divided for a house-to-house canvass, members volunteering to do the work. It is expected that by this method at least three-fourths of the voters of the ward will be enlisted in the Better City Government movement.

The Eighth Ward Better City Government Club met last evening at No. 235 Aliso street, and effected permanent organization by electing J. T. Johannsen president and E. Abs Hagen secretary. UNUSUAL INTEREST IN THE RE-DURLICAN PRIMARIES.

The Multitude of Tickets Indicate Lively Contests Today in Nearly All the Precincts.

WILY SCHEMES OF THE "PUSH."

ONE BOGUS TICKET PROMPTLY REPUDIATED.

Rev. C. C. McLean Issues a Circula Detailing the Trickery of the Bosslet in the Fourth Ward.

The Republican city primaries will be held today, and the indications are that the unusual interest manifested in the caucuses will cause a heavy vote to be polled. There are so many candidates for office in the field, all of candidates for office in the lief, an or-them making combinations and work-ing with the caucus nominees and with opposition nominees for support, that it is difficult to ascertain the exact status of the men whose names are on the various tickets. In order to insure the selection of delegates who will act for the interests of the city, it will be necessary for voters to scrutinize closely the tickets presented to them and take no statements on trust from ticket-peddlers. The "push" is work-ing under cover and masquerading in the garb of reform, and the rankest tickets will be represented as "regular" and "opposition" in many precincts. The voter who desires to assist in completing the rout of the Parker-Lindley-Meserve outfit should seek for information about the tickets from some resident of his precinct who knows the nominees and whose judg-

Election officers are all requested to call at the office of C. E. Day, 127 South Broadway, this morning, and receive their instructions and report blanks. Voters of the Twenty-fourth precinct are warned that the caucus ticket is strictly "push," and that the "anti-push" better city government ticket bears these names: H. J. Stevens, C. A. Sheldrick, J. P. Goodwin, S. A. Carlisle, J. W. Grayson. This ticket was prepared by the business men of the Third Ward at meetings held on Saturday and Monday nights. The caucus ticket was put up by the same gang that stuffed the ballot-box at the county primary.

In the Twenty-first Precinct the In the Twenty-first Precinct the "push" has concocted a bogus "regular" ticket bearing the names of C. M. Elberson, R. B. Dickenson, W. H. Welsh, C. L. Bryan, Dr. W. L. Wade and L. L. Dennick. Dr. Wade does not belong to the "push," and his name was put upon the ticket without his consent and for the purpose of deceiving the voters, as this letter shows: "Editor of The Times: I had nothing to do with the inclosed ticket and denounce it as a fraud. I will work against it, and you may publish a statement to that effect.

The "anti-push" ticket in the Twenty-first Precinct is as follows: G. B. Shaffer, W. A. Bonynge, A. J. Dickens, W. H. Griffen, J. H. Krimminger, G. A. Cutler. Any other ticket purporting to be "regular" is a frault.

snaier, W. A. Bonynge, A. J. Dickens, W. H. Griffen, J. H. Krimminger, G. A. Cutler. Any other ticket purporting to be "regular" is a fraud.

The Seventh Ward Republican Club met last night and turned down all the nominees of the caucuses in the ward. The reason of this action is said to be that the tickets are supposed to be against the interest of H. E. Storrs, candidate for Mayor. New tickets will be put up by the club.

The caucus nominees in the Forty-third Precinct, Sixth Ward, deny that the caucus was packed, and assert that they are "anti-push" from the ground up. R. B. Lovell, represented as desiring the scalp of Chief Glass, affirms that he is and always has been the friend of Chief Glass, and is for him every time. Messrs. Lovell, D. E. Wells, and A. P. Cross declare positively that they defeated the "push" in the caucus and that the defeated men are representing the regular tickte as "push" for the purpose of defeating it.

Rev. C. C. McLean will be on hand in the Twenty-ninth Precinct, Fourth Ward, to take the third degree of his initiation in the mysteries of ward politics and to learn something new and interesting about the dark ways and vain tricks of the "push." The reverend gentleman was not discouraged by his experience at the county primaries. He comes to the front with a circular letter to the voters of the precinct, in which he says:

"Be at the primary election to be held at the southwest corner of Eighth and Oilve streets, from 2 to 7 p.m. tomorrow, Tuesday, October 6, to down bossism,' the push' and that which is disreputable in politics.

"You are aware of the reform we endeavored to inaugurate at the primary election for delegates to the county convention. By trickery and fraud, the political boss of the twenty-ninth precinct and his helpers defeated our reform ticket. All of the dishonorable methods were resorted to telect those favorable to him. One of the jobbers told me that he was opposed to 'the push,' and, as my neighbor, came to help 'down them, and for that purpose desired some of our circulars and tickets. I trusted him for hours until I discovered that he had our ticket on top and 'the push' and 'bogus' reform tickets under, which he would slip from beneath and fold for the voter. Should it be discovered, he would pretend that it had gotten among the reform tickets by accident and then hand one of the 'bogus' reform tickets with 'the push' candidate on, or the other with two names associated with Mr. Vogel's and mine, to make the voters believe that the reform tickets with five push,' who was receiving the ballots and depositing them in the box. "At the caucus, last Friday, October 2, the 'push,' headed by the 'boss' and a lot of men unrecognized as voters in the twenty-ninth precinct, took possession of the room in which the caucus was to be held, and by acclamation, elected their chairman and secretary, and inside of five minutes nominated four candidates by acclamation, and in the same way declared them nominees, and adjourned. As they came out I met them and was told that it was all over. I asked Mr. Vaughn if he had read the printed communication that all committeemen were ordered to read by the Republican City Committee, and followed the instructions in that circular. This he would not answer. I then said: 'Gentlemen, the so-called caucus just held, and so spedily adjourned, was illegal, and if you all will come back into the room I will prove it by reading the rules laid down by the Republican Central Committee to govern our voting at this caucus. They returned, except the political boss' and most of the push.' Against my protest, I was elected chairman, and Mr. Getz secretary. I then read the instructions, and requested the caucus, then properly convened, to elect a permanent chairman and secretary. Again, against our protest, by ballot, I was elected chairman and secretary. Again, against our protest, by ballot, I was elected chairman and Mr. Getz secretary—every voter recording his name and residence before voting. I then asked for nominations, saying: In this caucus every one will have his rights protected in nominating any person he wishes, and would not allow the nominations closed until after repeated requests for further nominations."

Political Gossip.

The ward heelers that undertook to run things in the Twelfth Precinct, Second Ward, in the interest of the 'push' candidates, have now come out with an opposition ticket to oppose the regular Republican caucus ticket. It behooves all respectable voters to be out at the primaries and support the regular Republican caucus nominees regular Republican caucus nominees in the interest of good government. To add an appearance of respectability to their ticket they have persuaded two prominent citizens to allow the use of their names on their ticket, B. F. Orr and George Kester, hoping thereby to pull it through. The following is the regular Republican caucus ticket, Twelfth Precinct, Second Ward: George E. Kester, William LeMoyne Wills, George Reed, Jr., A. J. Wheeler, Frank Gillespie.

OUR COUNTRY.

have been praying for 'our country.'
All good Republicans who believe in prayer and manhood will be at the primary election this Tuesday, from 2 to 7 p.m., to vote and labor for the 2 to 7 p.m., to vote and labor for the overthrow of bossism, the push and that which is disreputable in politics. The praying and manly in the Democratic and other parties will do the same at their caucus and primary elections. To send men to nominating conventions who are unpledged to any candidate, and pledged to nominate honorable men who are in favor of a clean, economic government, is to practically pray for 'our country.' From all men on the political tickets nominated, we should select those whom we believe to be most trustworthy. Recommendations, after careful investigations, will be forthcoming from the Better City Government League, and where they deem it necesland. It certainly will come from this pulpit from now until after the elections.

"I am glad I have people who sustain me in my endeavor to bring about a moral reform in politics, but if you did not, I would do it. Viewing my duty as I do, I could not do otherwise, and respect myself, and as I must live with myself and want good company, I must be clean in my life and fearless in the discharge of what I believe to be my duty. Never has any person said that I was unclean, unmanly, dishonest, unfair or cowardly, and I propose, by God's help, to so live that none can ever prove any of those five things against me. I hope the time will never come when any member of this church will think that he or she has any cause to speak against me, or affect my usefulness and thus injure this church. If any of you should ever have a grievance, or think you have, come to me and talk it over, and if I am wrong, I will take it back or publicly acknowledge my fault. Should I ever fail to do so, you should arraign me before the church tribunal and have me dismissed as unworthy the office of a Caristian minister, and, I assure you that if I learn that any of you for any personal opinion or private cause or what not, try to damage me in the estimation of good people, in or out of the church, you will have to stand trial or withdraw from the membership of Simpson Tabernacle, or I would resign the pastorate. I mean, that for harmony you or I would never it is a fight of any kind, but when it is on, be it political or otherwise, I have just enough Christian Scotch grit in me to defend what I believe to be right to the bitter end. Then, on political lines, let it be understood that for no political party will I contend in the pulpit, but for better government I will continue to pray and work."

COVINA.

COVINA, Oct. 5.—(Regular Correspondence.) This afternoon a heavy cloud of smoke enveloped the minor ranges about the junction of Coldwater and Cattle cafions, the result of a terrible mountain fire that is devastating the water sources of this valley. Another large area is burning to the westward, as far over as Tejunga Cañon. The allied water interests in this section yesterday afternoon sent H. D. Briggs, the secretary of the Azusa Irrigating Company, to the location of the San Gabriel fire, with instructions to employ fifteen to twenty experienced mountaineers to fight the fres. The devastation is getting so serious that it calls for the united efforts of the Supervisors and all the irrigators to suppress it. The cause of these conflagrations has not yet been published. The extremely dry season has killed the evergreen, scrub oak and other chaparral, and they burn like tinder. Heretofore, the north sides of the mountains and deeper cafions would not burn, because of the evergreen nature of shrubs, but now they are dead and withered, in tracts of hundreds of acres, inviting and carrying forward the fiames. It is hoped The Times will continue the good work it has already begun in awakening a general determination to suppress these mountain fires and prevent their recurrence. COVINA.

Duty of All Good Citisens to Labor for the Overthrow of Bossism and the Push—A Minister's

As a prelude to his Sunday morning's sermon, Dr. McLean, pastor of Simpson Tabernacle, spoke plainly upon the important subject of the primary elections. As today is election day, the remarks are herewith given: "A notice on the pulpit from D. L. Moody requests all Christians to pray on October 8 for 'our country.' Some of us this week will prove in a practical way, as in the past, that we have been praying for 'our country.' from the Better City Government League, and where they deem it necessary, an independent candidate will be named, and all who want their prayers to be fruit-bearing and not fruit-destroying, will govern themselves and vote and work accordingly. This is the kind of advice I believe should come from every pulpit in our land, It certainly will come from this pulpit from now until after the elections.

A DISASTROUS MORNING FIRE I

Two Buildings Burned on North Daily Street—John R. Thacker and His Wife Hurt—Two Thon-sand Dollars Loss.

A disastrous fire broke out in East Los Angeles shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, causing a loss of about $2000 and injury to two persons. The fire originated in the rear of

Mr. Thacker was awakened by odor of smoke and crackling flames. He aroused his wife, who hastily ran to of smoke and cracking names. It aroused his wife, who hastily ran to the corner and turned in an alarm from box No. 8. Theker burst open the door connecting the living rooms with the store and found the place filled with smoke and fames. From the roof of the grocery store flames were bursting heavenward, and the fire had eaten its way rapidly through the sides of the two buildings.

Thacker began carrying out his stock and succeeded in getting with the piano and saving a small amount of goods. He made several trips from the burning building to the street. The ceiling of the store was of canvas covered with paper, and it was soon loosened by the fire and blazing all over.

Thacker rushed into the building and the next minute a section of the burning ceiling fee and struck him on the head. His hair was singed off, and he was bady burned about the head and neck.

he was bady burned about the head and neck.

The fire department was prompt in responding to the alarm, and arrived in time to prevent the destruction of the adjoining property. The flames and the clanging of the fire gongs aroused the residents near by, and they turned out in various stages of dress and undress to witness the fire.

Adjoining Thacker's store is the residence of Mr. Irish. The flames caught on the roof and threatened the destruction of the building, but a stream of water speedily extinguished the fire before much damage had been done. In getting out of the house Mrs. Thacker cut her hand quite badly. Thacker was taken to a neighbor's house and his burns were dressed. The entire large stock of the grocery store was destroyed and nearly all of Thacker's stock also fell a prey to the flames and water. The buildings were owned by a man named Ebert and were insured. A rough estimate places the loss on stock and building at $2000. The origin of the fire is not known.

The pamphlet is an exquisite bit of typographical work, and is printed on rough deckle-edge paper with a heavy cream-laid embossed cover. The title page is printed in colors, the initulation being surmounted by the emblem of the society.

Accompanying it is the "First Report of the Historian of Sons of the Revolution in the State of California." It is dedicated to "The President and Members of the Society" in this State by Charles Putnam Fenner, historian, dated at Los Angeles, August 3, 1896. The report is an excellent condensation of the records of the secretary from the date of its incorporation, May 15, 1893, and will prove of great interest to all those whose privilege it is to be members of the society.

SPANISH REPUBLICANS.

ADDRESSED BY SEVERAL CANDI-DIDATES LAST NIGHT.

Congresaman McLachlan, B. N. Bulls and Capt. Cross Among the Speakers—Ralph Sepulveda De-serts the Bryan Party.

A meeting of Spanish-American Re-publicans was held last night in a hall on Buena Vista street, and was addressed in English and Spanish by sev eral speakers, who were introduced by Frank Dominguez, the presiding offi-cer. The Spanish band assisted the en-thusiasm by playing national airs bethe same of the conclusion of the meeting caught the crowd by playing "La Golondrina" very effectively. The sensation of the meeting was Ralph Sepulveda's speech, in which he renounced his life-long affiliations with the Democratic party. which he renounced his lite-long annua-tions with the Democratic party, and declared his adherence to the principles of the Republican platform and candi-dates. Mr. Sepulveda has been promi-nent in this part of the State as a Demnent in this part of the State as a Democratic stump speaker for many years, and as an orator he has few equals among the Spanish-speaking people. He was not in the list of speakers arranged before the meeting last night, but was called to the platform by the repeated and insistent demands of the audience. The people wanted to hear him, and would not be denied, and yelled with delight all through his speech.

The first speaker of the evening was R. R. Duckworth, who spoke in Spanish. He was followed by Congressman McLachlan, who delivered his address in English, and contrasted the condition of the country and the people under the state of the state of the state of the condition of the country and the people under the state of the state of the state of the state of the condition of the country and the people under the state of the state of sh. He was followed by Congressman McLachlan, who delivered his address in English, and contrasted the condition of the country and the people under Republican and Democratic rule. During four years of Republican protection, he said, all the manufactories were employing labor at good wages, new industries were springing up all over the country, and the United States were selling more than they bought and were drawing gold from abroad. When the Democrats got control, they passed a law that closed the factories and made tramps of American workmen, increased the public debt, reduced the revenues and paralyzed industry. Congressman McLachlan told his hearers that the question for them to decide was whether they would vote to restore to power the party that had given the country prosperity, or continue in power the party responsible for depression and hard times.

R. N. Bulla, candidate for State Senator, made a short, business-like, common-sense talk to the people, telling them that in the selection of men to make laws for them in the State Legislature, the important thing was not party politics, but the competency and honesty of the candidates, their ability and willingness to make laws for the benefit of the people. Bad laws, he said, were due more to the ignorance and incompetency than to the dishonesty of legislators.

Capt. John Cross, candidate for Assemblyman in the Seventy-fifth District, was introduced, and briefly and pointedly stated his position. He had been nominated without solicitation on his part, and if elected would do all in his power to serve the best interests of the people.

Repeated calls for Ralph Sepulveda brought that gentleman to the platform, and he made a speech in Spanish that set the audience wild with enthuslasm. He declared his disbellef in the free-coinage doctrines of the Democrats, and advocated the cause represented by McKinley.

Arrangements, are being made for weekly meetings in the Plaza for the especial benefit of the Latin-American voters. Mr. Sepulveda probably will speak

City Council Will Be Asked to Help

Put Them Out.

A delegation of citizens from Pasadena and other places will appear before the City Council today, to ask assistance from that body, in the work of extinguishing the forest fires, that are now raging in the mountains north of Pasadena.

The Board of Supervisors was yesterday waited upon by these same citizens and in informal consultation was held, regarding methods to be taken to put out the fires. The board is willing to contribute funds, and is certain to use some money to aid in the work of extinguishing these fires, but the amount to be given has not been decided upon. The advice of the District Attorney, as to what authority the board has in the matter will be asked and followed by the Supervisors.

ACQUITTED OF PERJURY.

W. S. Wise, the Perris real-estate dealer, who has been on trial before Judge Wellborn in the District Court on the charge of perjury, was acquitted yesterday afternoon. The charge had been based upon testimony giyen by Wise in a suit against him to recover on a note, in which he swore that he had no money. A month later he went upon the bond of a contractor for $1000.
W. A. Harris, the attorney for the defense, moved that the jury be instructed to acquit, as the alleged admission of the defendant himself that he had no property was not corroborated by any property was not corroborated by any other svidence, and was therefore insufficient to warrant a conviction. The motion was sustained by Judge Well-born, who instructed the jury to account.

Harcourt's Views.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader in the Commons, speaking tonight at Ebbvale. Harcourt, the Liberal leader in the Commons, speaking tonight at Ebbvale, expressed himself upon the Turkish question for the first time since the present conditions have developed. He called upon the government to grant security and protection to the Armenians. The Turkish government, he said, could never be re-formed until it ceased to exist. Yet, he continued, England could not act alone, because only a military occupation of Turkey would avail to protect the Armenians. England must cooperate with Russia, the first step being to obliterate the Cyprus convention by which the island of Cyprus was ceded to Great Britain.

BANK CLEARINGS. The clearings of the Los Angeles banks for the last week amounted to $$25,899, as compared with $1,207,696 for the corresponding week of 1895.

The clearings of the principal cities of the country for the previous week also showed a decided falling off. There were only three cities that week which showed an increase, Dallas, with 1.8 per cent., Memphis, with 6.9 per cent. Portland, Or., with 11.5 per cent The average decrease for the country was 21.4, the decrease of Los Angeles being 36.5 per cent.

SILVER AND PRICES. CALIFORNIA OLIVES IN THE EAST. Some time ago the Philadelphia Grocery World published an aritcle upon which comment was made in this column, in which the doubt was expressed that California olives would ever become popular in the East, because they were so different from the imported olive, and so forth. Now the same journal has the following contradictory statement on the subject, which is undoubtedly much nearer the truth than its first story:

than its first story:

"The entire stock of California ripe olives is exhausted. They found ready were strongly of the opinion that they would never find a market. The amount trade paper in the United States of its class:

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—(Editor American Grocer:) We all remember the old story of a comparatively freshly arrived Hibernian, who had been elected as an alderman of Philadelphia and who, attending his first banquet, was passed some Spanish green pickled olives, the first he had ever seen. Nibbling one, he threw it down in disgust, and, brandishing his fist, declared "he could lick the man who salted that plum." The story in any event was a good one and aptly described the hard, green, indigestible Spanish olive of today as an article of food or even of luxury. My mind was drawn to this story by an article in a recent issue of the Philadelphia Grocery World, in which the pickled ripe olives of California are "turned down," ridiculed, pronounced totally unsalable in the Eastern markets, and that they never will find a demand. This is certainly too bad, but they are finding such a demand in the West that The supply is nowhere equal to the call.

There are not many families in Los Angeles who consume two and a haif gailons of olives weekly, but it is not too much to say that there are a great many families who would consume that amount or more if they could afford it.
When people are educated up to recognizing the great value of the olive as a food, they will no longer consider it as a luxury, but give it a permanent place in their dietary.

Chronicle recently had the following sensible remarks:

"The Philadelphia Grocery World insists that ripe California pickled olives will not sell, and some of our Coast exchanges are very much exercised over it. Now California ripe pickled olives are good, and therefore they will sell, and we need not worry in the least about them. At present we have no need of any advertiseing from them whatever. In fact, the less we get the better, as we could not supply any large demand, and should one be created our European competitors, who have the olives, would get the benefit of it. The good thing about the ripe pickled olive is that we eat it right here. Our home market takes all our product. When we overrun that, as we soon shall, we shall have no trouble in finding other markets. In the mean time it is simply good sense to keep perfectly still about it and not tell all creation that we have a good thing."

The above writer is correct. The California olive is "all right." It will not be long before eastern dealers are running after the clive-growers of Cali-

WHEAT FOR INDIA. In connection with the recent considerable rise in the price of wheat the unusual fact is noted that California is sending wheat to price of wheat the unusual fact is noted that California is sending wheat to India. Since that country entered upon the cultivation of the cereal, it has exported largely to Europe, and, with the Argentine Republic and Australia, has been one of the important new factors in depressing prices. Recently two cargoes were chartered for the United Kingdom in San Francisco, with the option of going either to Calcutta or Bombay. The present Indian crop is way below the normal, stocks for home use are nearly exhausted, and the new crop will not be harvested until March. The San Francisco Chronicle says:

"Two vessels are now on the way to take the wheat, one of which is expected to arrive in a few days. One will carry 5600 and the other 6500 tons of wheat, and both will be able to sail so as to arrive in India between December 15 and Christmas. They will be far from supplying the need, and further orders or options for Calcutta or Bombay are expected before the end of this month.

"The fact of the partial failure of the Indian and the Argentine crops shows that they cannot be depended upon as a continual source of supply, whereas the California crop is nearly always a certainty. Further than this, California wheat is superior in quality, and is used for mixing with the Indian and certainty. Further than this, califor-nia wheat is superior in quality, and is used for mixing with the Indian and the Argentine productions, neither of which is employed alone in Europe. "Following Chicago, the local market

"Following Chicago, the local market was weaker yesherday, the falling off for December wheat being 2 and of May wheat 1 cent. Wide fluctuations hee, however, more common on a rising than on a stagnant market. Bidding was active throughout, and from 9 o'clock in the morning the Produce Exchange resounded with the excited cries of the brokers and commission merchants."

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

THE COMING AGRICULTURAL FAIR. The coming agricultural fair at Agricultural Park promises to be, in some respects, the most successful that has ever been held in Los Angeles. It is gratifying to note that more attention has been paid by those who have the matter in charge to secure a bona fide and interesting exhibit of agricultural products, and of articles connected more or less directly with the agricultural industry. Of late years there has been a growing tendency to turn these agricultural fairs into racing and gambling institutions, with a few big pumpkins thrown in, just for the looks of the things It is promised that the coming fair will be an exception to the rule activity the second THE COMING AGRICULTURAL wer known."

In connection with this subject, G.
W. Meade, who is an ardent champion of California products, sends The Times a clipping of the following communication from him on the subject of California olives, which was published on September 23, in the American Grocer of New York, the leading trade paper in the United States of its class:

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Bhares and Money.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The stock market today was fairly active and the course of prices irregular, with a strong finish. At intervals considerable animation was displayed and in a number of instances the fluctuations were material. Trading centered in the railways, Sugar being the only industrial that established a good record in point of activity. The market at the outset exhibited considerable weakness, under a renewal of bear pressure, and some offerings for the long account. The Grangers and Sugar were the principal objective points of attack, the last mentioned being adversely affected by reports of duil trade, increasing foreign competition and, finally, by the announcement of a sweeping cut in domestic redined grades of the product. London was a steady purchaser of internationals.
The leading bears were conspicuous in the early drives and during the first hour appoared to meet but slight resistance, or are to meet but slight resistance, or are any diview and during the first hour appoared to meet but slight resistance, market turned the scale and influenced a heavy covering movement. Rapidly succeeding reductions in actual and posted sterlingquotations eventually imparted aggressive strength to the share speculation and lifted prices to a point fractionally above Saturday's closing. The large accumulations of commercial bills over Saturday increased offerings against grain and cotton and a decided contraction in demand for exchange led to a sharp concession in actual rates, while posted figures fell off a full cent. This development encouraged expectations of an early resumption of gold imports. A slightly firmer market for discounts was noted. Some of the specialities displayed notable firmness. The market closed at the best figure. The bond market showed marked weakness in the early session. Subsequently the market developed strength in sympathy with the stock speculation and most of the early losses were recovered. The sales today

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The first transactions in December wheat were at from 67.65%, compared with 67% [67%] at the close of the session Saturday. The news regarding the week's shipments to Europe from the surplus raising countries and the heaviness of domestic receipts were together the cause of the opening decline. The shipments of wheat from Black Sea ports was stated to be 5.70%, 60%, which ran the works supponents upon the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1256 compared to the control of the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to Duluth receipts were 1258 compared to the enormous to the corresponding day the year before. Chicago receipts were 421 cars. against 85 last year. These figures were scarcely calculated to strengthen the belief in the failure of crops either in Russia or the American Northwest. In addition, trade was rather anticipating a heavy increase in the visible supply. Quite a good demand at about 67 cents was soon evident. New York had buying orders here almost at the start and succeeded in accumulating a large amount of cheap wheat; St. Louis also started buying here on the decline; the foreigners also resumed purchases and took a good line here and at the seaboard. Prices began to rise immediately and were visibly "boosted" by the visible supply which showed only 1,400,000 increase—or materially less than indicated by the returns early in the session. The strength continued until 58% had been reached for December, the high point of the day. At over 60 center, the high point of the day. after disease has begun its dreadful work inside. If a man looks well and doesn't feel well, he had better be governed by the feeling not by the looks. A great many apparently strong and vigorous men collapse suddenly. They have what is known as nervous prostration. They go along persistently, day after day, working hard and thinking hard. apparently healthy, and some day they go home and go to bed and don't get up again. The trouble didn't all come at ence. It came on gradually. A strong man can live on his nerves and his health for a long time without apparent injury, but it isn't a safe thing to do. Whenever there is nervousness, or insomnia, or undue fatigue from ordinary work, when irritability takes the place of contentment, when a man "isn't sick but doesn't feel quite well"—then is the time he should begin to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the best tonic medicine and nerve food, or invigorator in the world. It assists digestion, increases the appetite, promotes the blood and adds to it the life-giving principles that are needed to feed the starved nerves. It puts the whole body into perfectune, and stimulates each organ to do the work for which it was, intended. Thousands of people have been cured of most serious sickness by this wonderful medicine. PASADENA, Oct. 5.—(Regular Correspondence.) The annual meeting of the Orange-growers' Association was held here this afternoon, but little business was transacted beyond the filing of the financial statements for the year. This showed that the association had received from the dividends of the Overlad Fruit Dispatch $310,95, and from sales through the Southern Califrom sales through the Southern Cali-fornia Fruit Exchange $12,611.92. PATRIOTIC LEAGUE.

The movement among the veteran soldiers and sallors of the late war for the formation of a patriotic league is meeting with a hearty response in this community. Today rooms were this community. Today rooms were opened in the Richardson building, and before noon fifty names were enrolled. It is thought that there will be at least before noon fifty names were enrolled. It is thought that there will be at least three hundred members enrolled in the next few weeks. There will be 100 members or more in line for the great parade Thursday, when Senator Perkins speaks here, it is thought, as enrollments wil continue when the objects of the new organization become familiar to the community. Every son of a sailor or a soldier of the civil war, even though he not be a member of the Sons of Veterans Association, is eligible for membership, and they are earnestly requested to interest themselves in the patriotic undertaking. It is stated that the league intends to bring to Pasadena the union generals who are making speeches throughout the country, if they should come to this Coast, and will give them a rousing reception here.

MOUNTAIN FIRE. MOUNTAIN FIRE.

The men spent Sunday night at Switzers, and enjoyed a good rest, and are feeling invigorated and encouraged for the heroic battle that they must wage tonight with the devouring element. The fire has been burning flercely all day along the crest of Brown Mountain, but it is thought that tonight substantial progress will be made in limiting it. Another great fire is approaching from the Tejunga country, but it will probably seek the range to the north of the present fires, and can only be subdued by fighting it from the San Gabriel country. Apprehension is felt that when the Tejunga fire reaches the San Gabriel, the confiagration which is raging there will spread, and danger will be experienced from that quarter, but the experience of far has demonstrated that the fires can be checked, and it is hoped that the people of Azusa, and the country round about will awaken to the gravity of the situation, and make a fight against the approaching flames, while it can be done with any hope of success, and not allow the devastation to continue. The second fire is paralleling the track of the first, but has nothing left to feed it along this portion of the range, in the Dark Cafion, where it can reach the still unburned portion of the timber.

John McCutcheon returned this afternoon, and reports the trails impassable, ownig to great trees and brush, some still burning, that have fallen across the trails everywhere. He says it is no exaggeration to say sheets of flame fifty feet high are mowing the trees from the mountain sides. This evening fire is again seen at several points along the top of the front range upon which the Mt. Lowe Railway and Echo Mountain House are located. Apparently nothing is being done to check the San Gabriel Cafion fire, which is the largest of all.

An important transfer of real estate was made today, the sale being that of the southeast twenty-five feet, fronting on Raymond avenue, at the corner of Legues street, the owners, Charles Legge and wife selling to Edwin Ivey of Seattle, Wash. Mr. Ivey will at once begin the erection of a pressed-brick business building on his new purchase, carrying the business district just a little farther north than it has been heretofore. North Raymond avenue property has been exceedingly active of late, and the transfer last week of a large frontage which will be used for business purposes has been noted. No immediate building operations will be begun on the lots at the corner of Union and Raymond, but Mr. Ivey will break ground as soon as he can make the preliminary arrangements for the structure.

BRYAN MEETING AT THE WIG-WAM.

The Republicans were out in force at the meeting at the evening, deceived by the advertisement of the meeting into the belief that it was a Republican gathering; and that there should be no mistake in regard to their political sentiments, they wore gold badges as large as butter plates. There were 1200 of these counted in the audience, a single gentleman distribut-ing 400 at the door at the request of Republicans.

Republicans.

At 3 o'clock the meeting was called to order by J. B. Young, and James G. Clark piped some of his "potry," in which the burden was "clear the way," but he was finally quenched by the noise of the brass band outside announcing the approach of the Los Angeles contingent.

noise of the brass band outside announcing the approach of the Los Angeles contingent.

Mr. Sprague, who aspires to be Assemblyman, was introduced as the next Assemblyman, and there was a wait for a burst of applause, but it did not "burst," and Mr. Sprague told what he would do if he should go to the Assembly.

M. L. Taylor was introduced, and at once plunged into a dreary-set speech. He brought forward the moth-eaten assertion that the tariff was not an issue. He said that the commercial distress lay "deeper than legislating the products of the country up or down," and then for an hour he tried to demonstrate how silver could be "legislated up" and universal prosperity follow. He said, if there was a class fight, the silverites did not begin it. Democrats could point to the East and say, "You cannot say we did it." He launched into a tirade against "those who had caused the fight," and wound up by saying that the silver people were not abusing any one or calling names. After this little digression, he came into line with his tilk and told of the same inflammatory utterances against the holders of invested capital, the same cry of cheap money and dear products, and when the audlence was courteously quiet, the speaker said that he recognized that he was speaking to a courteous audience and thanked them for the patience with which they had listened to him. Throughout the whole speech there was no attempt at argument, but generalization, appeals to feeling, and spread-eagleism. It was the poorest effort on the wigwam platform that has been heard during the campaign. Questions being written and handed to him, he shielded himself and refused to answer, calling for the questioner to come and debate with him. But he was called to time by Mr. Sprague, and finally endeavored to respond.

to come and debate with him. But he was called to time by Mr. Sprague, and finally endeavored to respond.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

The Examiner makes the statement that the Democratic contingent in Pasadena is gaining ground with great rapidity, and quotes 76 as the number of members of the Bryan Club who are voters. It is estimated that there are not half that number of voters in the Bryan Club here, but the club refuses to give any person access to its club list, and could therefore state with impunity anything it sees fit. Eighteen members of the Americus Club are converts of this campaign, and that gives 10 per cent, of that organization as gained from the Democratic ranks. Prominent business men in the community who have hitherto been Democratis, have joined the Republican ranks, and the Republicans will certainly poil 2000 votes for McKinley in November.

There was a great game of ball at the cycle track this afternoon between the Old Timers and the Pasadena Baseball Club. A large number of spectators were present, and the audience was an enthusiastic and appreciative one. The "masoot" of the Old Timers was not effective, for the score stood 17 to 1 in favor of the Pasadena Club. and the Old Timers have concluded that the younger nine know something about the great American game after all, and they will not be able to teach them anything this season. The sport was fine, and was greatly enjoyed, in spite of the heat.

N. O. The building of a garbage erematory is one of the urgent needs, and it is hoped that some action will be taken at an early day to secure the proper disposal of refuse.

CHURCH THIEVES.

It is rather an uncommon thing for a church to be robbed, and yet that very thing happened in this city Sunday evening while the members and friends of the church organizations were attending worship.

The thefts were committed at the Christian Church at the corner of Sixth and Birch streets and the German Lutheran Church at the corner of Fifth and Ross streets. It was about 8 o'clock when the thieves entered, the first-named church edifice and appropriated a number of hats, whips and buggy robes from the small ante-room in the front of the building, next to the street. A few minutes later they visited the German Lutheran building and abstracted an overcoat, clock and several lap robes without detection, from the front ante-room. At the first place the thleves were seen by several general lap robes without detection, from the front ante-room. At the first place the thleves were seen by several general that time the gentlemen did not take them to be thieves.

The thefts have been reported to the officers, together with a description of the parties that were seen at the Christian Church, and it is quite probable that the fellows will be run down.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 5.—(Regular Correspondence.) This will be an active week for Republicans in this county. There will be fourteen meetings or more, which will be adressed by some of the ablest campaign-speakers. The most important meeting will be at the Plaza in this city on Tuesday night. Senator George C. Perkins and the Hon. Benjamin Butterworth will address this meeting. Excursion trains Senator George C. Perkins and the Hon. Benjamin Butterworth will address this meeting. Excursion trains will be run from the country districts to accommodate ranchers desirous of listening to the distinguished speakers. The McKinley Club, the Sound-Money League and the Republican County Central Committee are doing splendid work educating voters to see the fallacles of the free-silver theorists. This work is securing converts to the cause of protection and sound money. Silver speakers from 'Frisco are vainly trying to undo the work of Republicans by making street-corner harangues and distributing cheap-money literature, which the silver millionaires of San Francisco are said to be paying for. It is dicfinit to convince ranchers, however, that Bryan's proposed remedy of bringing about a season of prosperity by first inaugurating another financial panic, which, he admits, would follow the practice of a free-silver policy, is what they most need. Down this way, the ranchers have had about all the panics they can stand for the immediate present. Another panic even if followed by prosperity would fuln many a rancher so completely that any subsequent era of prosperity would find him in too weakly a condition to reap much benefit from it.

Diamonds Made from Metals.

Diamonds Made from Metals.

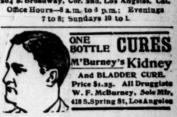

(Pall Mall Gazette:) A few days ago M. Moissan, the distinguished French metallurgist, discovered that if iron were saturated with carbon at the high temperature of the electric arc, some of the carbon would separate out on cooling in the form of true diamond. Another chemist, M. Rossel, has conceived the idea that, owing to the method by which hard steel is manufactured, it probably contains diamonds, and this has been found to be the case. By dissolving away the metal in acid, and treating the residue with concentrated nitric acid, potassium chlorate and hydroffuoric and sulphuric acids, minute crystals of diamond are left behind.

ASPHALTUM INDUSTRY.

MANUFACTURED LAST YEAR.

Southern California Has Led to Excellent Street Pavements and Industrial Economy - A Little

The growing popularity of asphaltum for street-paying uses has awakened a new interest in the crude oil production of this State, aside from its very ge eral use for generating steam for powe and manufacturing purposes.

The total annual product of crude oii in California is conservatively esti-mated at 1,440,000 barrels, divided as follows: Los Angeles city, 710,000 bar-rels; Newhall, in Los Angeles county, 170,000 barrels, making a total of 895, 180,000 barrels; Ventura county, 365,000 aggregating 1,440,000 barrels as given

The most profitable well ever drilled in the State is in Ventura county and was sunk to a depth of 2700 feet, at a cost of $18,000. This well has a record of having produced 1,000,000 barrels. It was drilled as a "wildcat," and no coupon from The Times and take advantage of the opportunity offered to win these valuable prizes.

All women who are interested in physical culture will please meet Miss A. L. Murphy, at Y.W.C.A. rooms, No. 207 North Spring street, at 7 o'clock this evening. Beginners' class will be formed; day class 10 a.m. Wednesday. and owned by Hardison & Stewart.
There is some difference in the gravity of the oil produced in the localities mentioned, yet the heavier oil of the Los Angeles city field has given the following rsuits, as shown by the books of the Los Angeles Oil Burning and Supply Company:
Light distillate oil, 8 percent.; twenty-four-gravity fuel oil, 60 per cent: asphaltum, 24 per cent., leaving but 8 per cent of actual waste.
During last year the asphaltum product of the State reached over twenty-five thousand tons. The following figures show last year's output and the per cent. of actual waste.

During last year the asphaltum product of the State reached over twenty-five thousand tons. The following figures show last year's output and the probable increase for the present year:
Los Angeles Oil Burning and Supply Company, 1800 tons: expect an output of 5000 tons during the present year.
California Petroleum and Asphalt Company of San Francisco, with works at Carpinteria, 8000 tons; will increase to 10,000 tons.
Standard Asphalt Company of San Francisco, with works at Spur Asphalte, forty-five miles from Bakersfield, 8000; probable increase to 10,000 tons during the present year. This company is also known as the Pacific Improvement Company—incidentally the Southern Pacific Company.
The Union Oil Company, with works formerly at Santa Paula but recently removed to Oleum, near San Francisco, 4000 tons, with a probable increase to 6000 tons.

To the above companies may be added the Ojal Company in Santa Barbara and three companies in San Luis Obispo county, known as the San Luis Obispo Bituminous Rock Company; San Luis Obispo Company, and Santa Cruz Bituminous Rock Company. These companies aggregate an annual product of 5000 tons.

A Colorado company is also making large shipments to Denver, but its output is not known.
Asphaltum sells in the local markets at $14 per ton. This would give the present year's product of the State a value of nearly a half-million dollars.
Large quantities of asphaltum are also manufactured into paints. One firm is engaged in this Industry in San Francisco. In the East its manufacture is more extensively prosecuted, a company in Boundbrook, N. J., having imported. 1000 tons from the Coast during the past year. Among the elements of excellence claimed for asphaltum paint is protection against fire.

Large quantities of ink are also manufactured from crude oil.

ments of excellence claimed for asphaltum paint is protection against fire.

Large quantities of ink are also manufactured from crude oil.

It is well known that crude oil possesses medicinal properties and that a more healthful class of men than those who delve in the oil can be found nowhere. This oil is said to be an excellent remedy in treating cuts and bruises, and workmen know this and resort to its use in case of accidents.

Twenty different kinds of oil are manufactured from this fuel oil; of this number, one of the oils will sink in water like lead, "smells to heaven," and has a value in Germany of $2 per ounce.

and has a value in Germany of $2 per ounce.

The Union Oil Company is probably covering more territory than any one of the other companies. It is composed of the Sesne Oil Company, the Mission Transfer Company, the Torrey Cafion Oil Company, and Hardison & Co., and it is not known how many other unions.

onl Company, and Hardison & Co., and it is not known how many other unions.

A difference of opinion is expressed regarding the steam power of crude oil. A few companies claim that fourteen pounds of water may be evaporated with twenty or twenty-two gravity oil, but declare their best results with twelve gravity oil has averaged no more than ten or eleven pounds of water to one pound of such oil. But it was admitted that they did not reach the point at which the latent heat of water is developed, otherwise the result might have been different.

When the oil burners are perfectly arranged no smoke whatever can be seen coming from the smokestack. Except for the roar of machinery and clang of the hammers, one not familiar with fuel oil would believe the works were shut down.

It is not improbable that "the point" in economy has not yet been reached even by the most sagacious operators. To more forcibly impress this point of oil economy upon the minds of its readers, The Times will cite to the results now being attained by one firm, that of the Kerckhoff-Cuzner Company. Formerly this industrial firm consumed 800 barrels per month. It now burns 250 barrels per month and is developing more power than ever before.

developing more power than ever before.

At one time oil men were eager to bid for supplying the Courthouse with its crude fuel, but under Engineer Norton the necessary product is so greatly reduced that eager eyes are no longer turned in that direction.

John J. Baclgalupi, secretary of the Oil Burning and Supply Company, is making a close study of the crude-oil product of Los Angeles, and does not believe the district has seen its best days and heaviest production. He is well informed in oil distillation and furnished the writer with some valuable data in connection with this article.
